RECORD 'OFF-YEAR' VOTE SEEN

Nazis Press Neutrals to Crack Blockade

BERLIN HINTS STIR BELGIUM AND HOLLAND

King Leopold Confers With Dutch Queen, Returns and Summons Cabinet.

FLAYS NEUTRALITY STAND

Germans Claim Neutrals Leave British Hold Ships, File Only Mild Protests.

(By United Press)

A German spokesman indicated today that Berlin is putting pressure on European neutrals to resist the Allied blockade.

This appeared to be the first clue to the nature of developments that caused King Leopold of the Belgians to make a secret trip to Holland for conferences with Queen Wilhelmina, and then hurry back to Brussels, where a cabinet meeting was hurriedly called.

A German foreign office spokesman, commenting on the monarchs' urgent talks at The Hague, said "it is up to the small powers to do something more than make paper complaints regarding the British blockade."

The German spokesman asserted that the neutrals have "let Britain hold their ships for weeks on end without doing anything about it" and that "such an attitude is scarcely consistent with true neutrality."

Back of the German contention, observers presumed, was the belief that if the neutrals around Germany insisted on getting their shipping through without delay, more supplies would become available to Germany.

Situation More Serious.

There were some indications that even more alarming developments than the blockade question might have been responsible for King Leopold's hurried trip to Holland.

Belgian pursuit planes made extensive flights all over that country last night. Belgian anti-aircraft guns were fired yesterday around Lieve and Malines, with what results was not known.

Leopold arrived secretly in The Hague last night. He and the Dutch queen, and their respective foreign ministers, talked until 2 a. m. They conferred again today and then Leopold left for Brussels by automobile at 2:20 p. m.

Silent crowds watched outside the Dutch palace, waiting for news that it was expected in a com-

They're In Same Booth But Second Ward, Not First

Voters in the Lexington avenue district of the First ward went to the same place to cast their ballots today, but they voted in the Second ward instead of the First.

Since the last election, the board of elections transferred precinct H of the First ward to the Second ward in the first move to reorganize the Woodland district.

The precinct is listed now as precinct H of the Second ward, leaving room for the addition in the future of precincts F and G. There had been only five precincts in the Second ward while the First had 13.

Voters in the H precinct will still cast their ballots at the Walter H. Goodenough home, 400 Lexington avenue.

A. F. Porter, election board clerk, said new ward lines probably will be drawn soon in the southwest section of the city, setting up more precincts in the Second ward and reducing the size of the First ward.

DOUBLE THRILL

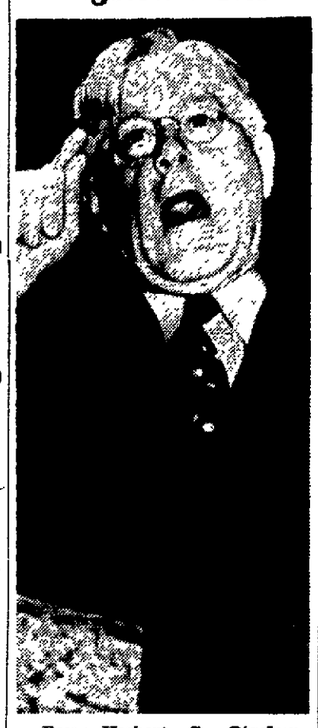
Auto Knocks Girl, 8, In Front of Train; Escapes With Bruises.

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—(AP)—Marian Suhrenheingich, 8, was crossing a railroad track on her way to school.

An automobile knocked her into the path of a train. She stumbled from in front of the locomotive and fell unconscious.

In a hospital, physicians found she had only a slight head injury and a leg bruise.

Bigelow Waits



Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, above, waited today the decision of Ohio voters on whether his proposed "$50-at-60" pension plan should be adopted. The pension proposal which set off a torrid storm of opposition was credited with drawing out an unusually large number of voters throughout the state.

SHIP TRANSFER ACTION DELAYED

U. S. Studying Requests of American Line to Fly Panama Flag.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The maritime commission withheld final approval today of a request to place nine American merchant ships under Panamanian registry so that they could escape the new neutrality law and continue voyages to Europe.

After commission sources had said yesterday afternoon that the United States lines' application for the transfer was granted, the commission held an evening meeting and announced at midnight that it was deferring action.

The ships consist of all but two of those used in transatlantic service by the United States lines. If the application is approved, they would be transferred to a Panamanian corporation, would fly the flag of Panama, and would have no

PLANES CLASH

Denmark Reports British and Nazi Pilots in Air Battle.

COPENHAGEN—(U.P.)—A fight between war planes was reported today off Ringkjoeping, on the west coast of Jutland.

Two bombers which came from the north were pursued by 12 planes in a 15-minute combat. Later, observers said, the bombers dived and escaped to the south.

The 12 pursuing planes were believed to be British. It was believed that they were pursuing two German Junkers bombers which had attempted to bomb the north Scottish coast.

DO YOU HATE LIFE?

Take Guns, You Hunters, and Follow Example of Nimrods Who Don't Return

Here's 8 Easy Lessons For Those Who Want 'To End It All.'

By JANE WILLIAMS

How to kill yourself in eight easy lessons is demonstrated in the accompanying pictures. Since the hunting season opens tomorrow there's no reason why you shouldn't carry the pictures around with you. They will save you thinking up original methods of self destruction.

Personally, we like the method demonstrated at the bottom of the strip. It is so simple and so sure. You just climb over a fence, grab the barrel of the gun with the barrel toward you—preferably aimed at your face or stomach—and then pull the gun toward you. Chances of catching the trigger on the fence are excellent.

But, of course, if you have no imagination you can use the old method—just look down the barrel of a loaded gun. You won't make a very neat corpse but that's one of the things you don't have to worry about. Your family will do it.

The first figure at the left top is that of a very selfish man. He has every right in the world to play with his own life—but not to toy with that of another person. Shooting toward or across a public highway just isn't cricket.

Don't be discouraged if you practice these methods several times and are still living. Repeat them and you'll get results. Try handing your gun to another nimrod, with the muzzle toward yourself; or load your gun while the car is in motion. Getting into a boat with a loaded gun very frequently brings effective results.

A lot of hunters are set in their ways and do these things just because they have always done them and nothing ever came of it. But on the other hand, there is a class of nimrods, gay and nonchalant about the whole thing, who jump across ditches with a loaded gun or take a shot at anything anywhere.

LOOK DOWN IN A GUN BARREL
SHOOT ACROSS A PUBLIC HIGHWAY
DRAG A GUN AFTER YOU WHEN CLIMBING A FENCE
FACE THE MAN WHO HAS A GUN
LOAD A GUN IN A CAR THAT'S IN MOTION
LOAD A BOAT WITH A LOADED GUN
DRAG A GUN MUZZLE FOREMOST
REST THE MUZZLE ON THE GROUND

Everyone knows this type from the newspaper stories. He always says dramatically: "I saw something move around the brush and I thought it was a rabbit. But it was my best friend." Sometimes they don't always get such big game as a friend—sometimes it's only a farmer's cow or pig. And that always helps to make the farmer feel more kindly and generous to hunters.

Of course there is a fairly large percentage of the thousands of Ohio hunters who take to the fields each year who do not come under any of these classifications. They are what is known as "careful." They don't take loaded guns into their homes or transport loaded arms in cars, and who always have the safety catch on while not actually looking for game. They never point a gun at anyone even in fun. Not even at a land owner who asks if they can't read signs.

But you know the type—the hunter who is considerate and courteous, who would rather lose a shot than take a chance on some one's life. He always brings home the birds—but he's never known the thrill of missing some one's head or limbs by inches. Just an old stick-in-the-mud.

And he'll abide by the rules of good sportsmanship as well as the law. He won't hunt on Sunday and he won't kill the hen pheasants. And he'll keep to the quota allowed under the state game laws. . . . And enjoy the best pheasant and rabbit hunting in years.

1,300 Turn Out for Banner Opening of Cooking School

Largest Crowd to Attend a First Session Welcomes Miss Chambers, Here for Fourth Time.

The largest crowd ever to attend a cooking school opening in Mansfield turned out this morning for The News-Journal's fall school and to welcome Miss Ruth Chambers, lecturer who is conducting her fourth school here. More than 1,300 women were at the opening session at the Ohio theater.

Mrs. Lester Redding, president of the Mansfield Federation of Women, was presented and in turn introduced Miss Chambers. Miss Reba Staggs, assistant to Miss Chambers was also presented.

Presented With Booklets.

A line-up of eight young Mansfield girls greeted women as they entered the theater, presenting them with the booklet containing the day's recipes. At the end of the session, three girls dressed in Dutch, French and Mexican costumes paraded the garnished dishes across the stage for the audience to see. The girls were from the salesmanship class at Senior High school. Ushers were Gerry Hartman, Ruth Mengert, Ruth Becker, Margaret Gilbert, Viola Meister, Phyllis Vaugh and Frances Miller.

Those who took part in the Parade of Foods were Margaret Urschel, Dorothy Swendal and Virginia Sanderson.

Miss Chambers and Miss Staggs worked on a stage set up as a blue and white kitchen.

4 DIE IN FIRE

3 Girls, Boy Trapped When Blaze Envelops Home.

PLAINSFIELD, N. J.—(AP)—Three girls and a boy, trapped in second floor bedrooms, burned to death early today in a fire that quickly consumed their two-story frame home.

The dead were Dorothy Harris, 17; Raymond, 6, a brother; Margaret 4, sister; and Ann Finkbiener, 20, of Newark, a cousin who came to take charge of the household after the children's mother died several months ago.

The only one to escape from the second floor was a brother Robert, 15, who responded to cries from his father, George Harris, 55, one-legged painter, who slept downstairs.

PRIZE FOR FDR?

Hears President Being Boomed for Nobel Award.

OSLO—(AP)—Usually reliable sources said today a movement was on foot to award the Nobel peace prize to President Roosevelt.

While some uncertainty existed whether the prize would be awarded this year, informed quarters said that Mr. Roosevelt was the only candidate at present under consideration. Members of the Nobel committee declined comment.

ROUT FAMILIES

Police Sirens Rouse Clevelanders As Ammonia Fumes Spread.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Nearly 100 near east side families experienced today the inconveniences of a "gas attack." They were roused from their beds by five police cruiser squads after a broken pipe sent clouds of acrid ammonia gas over the neighborhood from the North Pole Ice & Fuel Co. plant.

GREENLUN OPENS FIGHT FOR JOB

Files Appeal From Ouster; Brunswick Officials Lose Court Motion.

ASHLAND—Robert S. Greenlun, dismissed as superintendent of route marking in the Ashland division of the state highway department today opened a fight for reinstatement. He was dismissed on order of State Highway Director Robert Beightler last Saturday.

Almost simultaneously with the filing of Greenlun's appeal from the dismissal order with the state civil service commission, Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson overruled the motion of two Brunswick officials to have criminal libel indictments against them squashed. The indictment of the two men, Mark M. Lutz, justice of the peace, and Walter Petchler, constable, grew out of the Greenlun controversy.

In his appeal to the commission Greenlun, through his attorney, J. L. Mason, avers that the charges against him were

Deer 'Shot' Near Olivesburg

Yesterday afternoon The News-Journal photographer went deer "hunting" and the above photo shows the results. This beautiful buck was cavorting over the hills of the farms south of Olivesburg. Deer are known to be moving into the hills of northern Ohio from Pennsylvania. This one proved to be quite tame allowing persons to get as close as 50 feet to it.

At noon today, Mrs. C. A. Seaton, near Shenandoah, reported a four-point buck was in the pasture with the cows on the Seaton farm.

MOTHER KILLS DAUGHTER, 8, THEN HERSELF

Couple Had Left Windsor, Near Mansfield, Only Week Ago to Live in Cleveland.

FATHER FINDS TWO BODIES

Mother Leaves Notes, Telling of Love for Mate, Fear of Going Insane.

A 28-year-old mother and her 8-year-old daughter, both said to have been former residents of Windsor, near Mansfield, lay dead in their Cleveland home today, apparently the victims of murder and suicide.

Cleveland police reported, according to Associated Press dispatches, that Mrs. Emma Mebzaros, 28, had shot her daughter June, 8, and then turned the gun on herself.

Their pajama clad bodies were found by Alex Mebzaros, husband and father, when he returned home from his night shift job in a Cleveland steel plant, dispatches said.

Mebzaros said he had moved his family from Windsor to Cleveland only a week ago. He said he had worked on a farm at Windsor until 20 months ago, when he obtained a job in Cleveland, but had not brought his family to Cleveland immediately.

Efforts to learn where the family had lived in Windsor were not immediately successful.

Find Revolver In Room.

Detective Sergeant James Hogan of the Cleveland police force said a revolver containing two discharged shells was found in the bedroom. The officer reported the mother wrote a note in which she said she feared insanity.

In a note addressed to her husband as "my dearest darling," Mrs. Mebzaros said: "I hate to do this to you because I love you so very much and you have been so loving and patient with me. But I can't go on like this. It's no one's fault but my own. I just hate living even though I have everything to live for."

The mother added, "I am taking June, too. I know her soul will go to heaven."

A second note, addressed to Mrs. Esther Heineman of Cleveland, Mrs. Mebzaros' mother, said, "It's just my crazy mind. There must be insanity in my blood someplace."

Coroner S. R. Gerber returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT

FINDLAY—(AP)—An automobile collision near here left Mrs. Pauline Downing, 28, dead today and her husband, Joseph R. Downing, 38, Fort McPherson, Ga., warrant officer, in critical condition. Their small daughter, Patsy, also was injured.

Electors Pour Into Booths In Morning Hours

Vote Of 14,500 Predicted As Survey Shows Fifth of Electorate Cast Ballots During First Four Hours; Both Dems, G. O. P. Optimistic.

Under clearing skies Mansfield went to the polls today in numbers which indicated a record vote for an off-year election might be cast.

Despite a lack-luster campaign by both Democrats and Republicans, interest in the Bigelow constitutional amendments, the three-mill school levy and other issues was bringing out voters in a steady stream which early in the day promised to top 1937's off-year election of 10,500 by several thousand votes.

On the basis of 20 precincts in the city surveyed at 10:30 a. m., The News-Journal found a total city vote of 14,500 was a reasonable prediction.

The combination of pleasant weather and controversial issues brought approximately 19 per cent of the voters to the polls in the 20 precincts checked four hours after balloting at 6:30 a. m.

In the 20 precincts, a vote of 1,422 was cast by 10:30 a. m. out of a total registration of 7,186. In the city, the total registration is approximately 16,000.

Due, perhaps, to short campaigns held by both parties without an unusual amount of success in arousing interest in municipal races, attention today centered around the Cincinnati pastor-politician's plan to provide $50 monthly to oldsters over 60, to amend the state constitution to make it easier to initiate new legislation and to make amending the constitution an easier process.

In the contests for municipal offices, the races between Mayor Claude M. Hunter, and his Republican opponent, William J. Locke, insurance man, and Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch and his Democratic challenger, Attorney George Blecker, were in the spotlight.

The election machinery in the city and county apparently was operating smoothly at noon. A. F. Porter, clerk of the county board of elections, said there had been no trouble reported and only a few calls during the morning.

Usually, the board has to straighten out numerous difficulties at the voting booths because voters try to vote in wrong precincts or ask to vote without registering or transferring.

Cheered by the heavy early vote in the first and second wards, normally Republican, G. O. P. leaders today predicted victory for Locke, the re-election of Judge Kalbfleisch, and election of at least five councilmen.

Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, G. O. P. campaign chairman, forecast a 1,500 vote majority for Locke and a 1,700 majority for Judge Kalbfleisch.

Democratic party leaders, while quick to predict a Democratic victory, hesitated to name the majority by which they would retain their hold on city building offices.

The betting, however, was even. All bets were quickly taken except on the auditor's race where City Auditor Paul L. Kelley has held that office for 16 years. His opponent is Herbert Rinehart.

Hunter backers were willing to put up wagers ranging to $300. A bet that Hunter, Blecker and Kelley all would find themselves in the city building in January was quickly taken.

Democratic and Republican workers were busy driving fleets of automobiles to and from the polls and voters' homes all day.

The Democratic campaign was brought to an official close last night at a meeting in Fred Miller's tavern in the Fifth ward. The traditional election eve rally, held in the party's strongest ward, was attended by all candidates who spoke briefly.

Atty. George Biddle, Democratic leader, gave the principal address urging workers to strive for a record Democratic vote.

STATE: Expect Bigelow Plan To Bring Out 2,500,000 Voters

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's voters wrote the fate of the Bigelow old age pension amendment, passed on three other state-wide issues and elected municipal officers in today's off-year election.

Drawn by the bitter battle over the pension plan—an issue that stirred more controversy than any since repeal—a near-record 2,500,000 persons were expected to vote. The polls opened at 6 a. m., will close at 6 p. m.

Overcast skies and higher temperatures were forecasts for the day.

There was a national tinge to the pension issue, leaders of both parties watching the Ohio vote closely for some indication of what manner of old-age security Ohioans approve. Because of its cross-section of industry and agriculture, the state is regarded as a political weather vane.

The proposed pension, supported by Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, would guarantee an income of $50 monthly to single persons and $80 monthly to couples over 60 and retired. The state now pays pensions averaging $23 to qualified persons 65 or over.

Bigelow, predicting victory, declared: "Reports from all over the state are amazingly encouraging. In Cleveland, for instance, poll after poll showed that we were ahead."

James L. E. Lappe, manager of a Cleveland organization fighting

NATION: Race Betting and Prohibition on Ballots Over U. S.

(By Associated Press)

Scattered city and state elections offered no clear-cut test on national issues today, but referenda on questions ranging from old-age pensions to pari-mutuel betting robbed the "off-year" balloting of its usual lethargy.

Interest centered largely on old-age pension proposals in California and Ohio. The California plan would give up to $30 every Thursday to unemployed persons over 50.

The Ohio plan, advocated by Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati clergyman, calls for pensions, supplementing other income, to provide total payments of $50 a month to retired single persons over 60 and $80 monthly to couples.

A referendum on sanctioning pari-mutuel betting at race tracks was the only statewide question before New York voters. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt were at their Hyde Park, N. Y., home to vote in an effort to dislodge some of the local Republican office holders.

Prohibition was an issue in Indiana, where towns of less than 3,000 population were electing town marshals.

One of the few contests bearing even remotely on President Roose-

Lone Civil War Vet Survives As Death Takes G. H. Fisher, 94

The death in Danville, Ill. yesterday of George H. Fisher, commander of McLaughlin Post, G. A. R., left Mansfield with a solitary link to the War between the States in 1861-65.

The lone survivor is W. B. Hammett, who is critically ill at his home on Helen avenue. The death of the last commander of McLaughlin post wipes that organization off the G. A. R. roster. Mr. Fisher was named commander in 1937.

He left his home at 45 Willow street two weeks ago to make his home with a daughter, Mrs. Lucy Nichols at Danville. Several days ago he was removed to a hospital where he died.

Mr. Fisher was not one of the "Old Guard" of McLaughlin post, having come to Mansfield 11 years ago from Danville. He was born

Defense, Farm Aid Seen Key Congress Issues in '40

BATTLE LINES BEGIN TO FORM ON PROPOSALS

Renewal of Reciprocal Trade Program Also Included in January Calendar.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON. — National defense, farm legislation and renewal of the reciprocal trade program were put forward today by some congressional leaders as key issues in the 1940 session.

The administration already had served notice that it would request an expanded defense program when congress meets in January. The idea found quick support—and a measure of criticism—from members of both major parties.

Plans for a new system of agricultural banks, drought relief and liberalized crop benefits were among the farm proposals.

The reciprocal trade law under fire in the senate during the special session, was criticized today by Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican house leader. He said he had been promised Democratic backing in an effort to terminate the act, expiring in June, under which the state department has negotiated trade treaties with a score of countries.

Before leaving the capital for home, Martin called the trade program an "attempt to circumvent congressional control over tariffs."

He said that house Republicans would be "agreeable to voting for defense funds if they don't try to work in phoney appropriations to try pump-priming under that guise."

Congressional sources have said that the defense program would be financed by continued borrowing rather than by new taxes. There has been some sentiment for reducing other expenditures in order to prevent defense costs from sending the treasury too deeply into the red.

Senator McNary of Oregon., the Republican leader, predicted that the existing farm subsidy program would be continued for another year.

Chairman Smith (D., S. C) of the senate agriculture committee disclosed that he would work for legislation to set up a new $2,000,000,000 system of agricultural banks.

Smith said there should be one federal bank in every state. They would make one to five-year advances to farmers at interest rates exactly covering the cost of the loans.

The present federal land banks, he declared, "are mere adjuncts to the commercial banking system."

Death Calls Off Honeymoon 10 Days After Pair Weds

LANSDOWNE, Pa. — (AP) — A bride of ten days went back to her parents' home in Orange, N. J., today—cheated of her honeymoon by death.

The husband she married just before his last attack of an old ailment they both knew would sometime be fatal will be buried tomorrow.

Since their courtship began three years ago, the girl, Lillian Mullin, and the young man, Dwight A. Bradley, former Atlantic City high school football player, postponed their marriage several times because Bradley suffered recurrent attacks of stomach ulcers.

Ten days ago as they drove from Orange to this Philadelphia suburb where Bradley's parents live, he suffered another attack.

They stopped at Morrisville, Pa., and were married by a justice of the peace, then called a doctor. He ordered Bradley brought home. His bride and his parents were at his bedside when he died.

INFANT DAUGHTER DIES

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bates, R. D. 4, Mansfield, died this morning at General hospital shortly after birth. Survivors are the parents, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gorman, R. D. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Rabel of Mansfield. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon with burial in the Mansfield cemetery.

Voting booths at Shelby were open at 6.30 a. m. today as scheduled but the first ballot was not cast until a half hour later, and the delay was not due to lack of voters. Much to the surprise of the Shelby election officials, they had forgotten the "minor matter" of getting the ballots from a Mansfield printing concern. Discovering the oversight they made a rush trip to Mansfield for the ballots but were able to furnish only a few of the booths with the blanks by 7 a. m. It was nearly 7.30 before all of the booths had ballots.

The others had been loaded into another car which the boys decided to leave at home. The players finally rustled up enough instruments in Marion to play the engagement.

Willis Countryman, Bellville, and C. W. Marks, Mansfield, big game hunters, returned this morning from the wilds of Canada with two deer and a bear—and a fine crop of unshorn whiskers. They left here two weeks ago, going to Wabuso where they left their car and took the Algoma Central railroad into the woods. They returned with a deer on each running board—both weighing around 200 pounds, and the carcass of a 650-pound black bear.

COUNTY HOLIDAY

Courthouse Ordered Closed on Armistice Day.

County commissioners today ordered the courthouse closed Saturday in observance of Armistice day.

The board's order will give county employes a full holiday. The offices ordinaarily close at noon on Saturdays.

Commissioners also awarded a contract to Stimmler's bakery, Mansfield, for furnishing bread for the county home during the next year at 7½ cents a loaf. Litzler's bakery, Mansfield, bid 7½ cents while Raemsnider's bakery bid 8 cents. The contract involves approximately $950 a year.

A petition for improvement of the Broadview Park ditch west of Mansfield was approved by the commissioners. The county engineer was instructed to survey the project and prepare an estimate of the cost.

JAILS YOUTH IN BURGLARY CASE

Sheriff Arrests 14-Year-Old Mt. Vernon Boy at Home; Rural School Looted.

Sheriff E. P. Long had solved one rural burglary today with the arrest of a 14-year-old Mt. Vernon youth and he was investigating another at the Hickory Hall rural school on the Lucas road.

At the school southeast of Mansfield, burglars broke into the school building and the coal house last night. There was nothing missing from the school, but a quantity of coal was taken from the shed. Entrance to the coal house was made through the door which was pried open. A window was broken open in the school building.

A 14-year-old youth, arrested late yesterday in Mt. Vernon by the sheriff, was to be taken before Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court on a charge of breaking into the home of Lloyd Bisell, southeast of Bellville.

Two antique pistols and a large pocket watch taken from the house were found at the youth's home in Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Bisell said one of the pistols, a muzzle-loader, was carried to California in the gold rush in 1849.

The youth gained entrance to the Bisell home by sawing through a lock on an outside basement door. A table fork used to pry open an old trunk in which the guns were kept was recovered by the sheriff. The boy was in the county detention home pending the juvenile court hearing.

At the Painter Confection company, 274 North Mulberry street, police reported that a window had been broken and the establishment ransacked. Nothing was reported missing.

FINDINGS FOR $185 AGAINST 5 RELIEF CLIENTS MADE IN AUDIT

Findings for the recovery of $185 against five Richland county relief clients was returned today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in a semi-annual report and pre-audit of poor relief administration in the county.

The findings which ranged from $4.84 to $132.31 all have been repaid, he said.

Three persons were named in the report for the "misinterpretation of facts," one for having funds in the bank while obtaining relief and the fifth for having other income while on the relief rolls.

The report revealed that the largest amount totaling $132.31 was repaid by Leona Wilson, High street, when it was disclosed that she had funds in the bank when she applied for assistance at relief headquarters.

Mrs. John Schmitzer, 20 Spring street, was cited for obtaining $4.84 from the administration while she had "other income."

The three who were required to pay back amounts which the report said was obtained through misinterpretation of facts were Eddie Phillips, 271 East Third street, $2; Dale Grogg, 229½ East Second street, $34.12, and Arthur McBride, R. D. 1, Mansfield, $12.06.

The report covering the first six months of this year showed that the administration of relief in Richland county cost a total of $70,565.

Of this amount approximately $16,000 was charged off as "work relief" while $7,600 was expended for administrative purposes.

More than 50 per cent of the total amount, or nearly $43,000 was spent to provide food, clothing and fuel for families inside the city. Madison township's encumbrances totaled $12,600 and Shelby spent $5,600.

DIES AT AGE 68

Andrew Bush Stricken Three Weeks After Wife.

Andrew Bush, 68, Jefferson avenue, died yesterday after a long illness, three weeks after the death of his wife, Pauline.

A native of Poland, Mr. Bush came to the United States 54 years ago. He was born Nov. 29, 1871. He had lived in Mansfield for 43 years and for 35 years had worked for the Cleveland Grain company.

Survivors are two sons, John and Joseph of Mansfield; six daughters, Mrs. Nicholas Smith, Mrs. Frank Novicic, Mrs. John Fisch, Mrs. Frances Lambert, all of Mansfield, and Miss Florence and Miss Geraldine Bush, at home; two brothers, Michael and Casper Bush of Mansfield, and nine grandchildren.

The body will be at the home until time of funeral services at 9:30 a. m. Thursday at St. Peter's Catholic church. Msgr. R. C. Goebel will officiate with burial in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

GALION—Mrs. Carrie Moleta Rhinehart, 60, died this morning at Good Samaritan hospital. A resident of Galion all her life, Mrs. Rhinehart had been in ill health for more than a year.

Born here in July, 1879, she is survived by her husband, Jesse, and her mother, Mrs. Amanda Henkel, also of Galion.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Snyder's funeral home in charge of Rev. Harry Merle, pastor of First Lutheran church, of which Mrs. Rhinehart was a member. Burial will be in the Fairview cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

CLAIMS MISSING GIRL LOCATED IN N. Y. ASYLUM

Paper Says Pal of Vanished Supreme Court Judge Has Been Confined 3 Years.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The New York Journal-American today announced that June Brice, native of Columbus, O., and long-missing showgirl friend of the vanished Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, has been found by a Journal-American reporter in the Pilgrim state hospital at Brentwood, Long Island, where she has been confined since November, 1936.

Miss Brice, known also as Mrs. Winthrop Covell and by her real name of Jennie Rosalie Holstein, the Journal-American said, was confined at the Manhattan state hospital on Ward's Island for a full year before entering Pilgrim state hospital.

She was described by the Journal-American as "a rambling, incoherent patient." She is the key witness in attempts of Emil K. Ellis, attorney for Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz, former wife of the missing jurist, to prove that Judge Crater died by violence.

The story added:

"With her aid Ellis, to prove violence and obtain for Mrs. Kunz $60,000 in double indemnity on the jurist's insurance policies, was expected to tell a court that Crater visited Mrs. Covell on the night of his disappearance and offered her $5,000 to sever their friendship."

Taken for Ride?

"Instead, the attorney's story was believed to run, two gangsters waylaid Judge Crater and took him for a ride in an attempt to extort $50,000 from him."

(Editor's Note: Judge Crater's disappeanance antedated that of June Brice by two weeks, she vanishing on Sept. 14, 1930. Mrs. Crater, after her husband had been declared legally dead, remarried and now as Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz, is seeking to collect double indemnity insurance of $60,000 on the grounds the jurist died by "external, violent or accidental means.")

At the time of Miss Brice's disappearance she was being sought as a witness by the grand jury probing Judge Crater's disappearance. The Journal-American said that she suffered a nervous breakdown in September, 1930, and was committed to the neurological institute in New York for treatment. The story said she was released the following December 15, and transferred to Columbus state hospital at Columbus, O.

WARNS PARENTS

Rehder Points to Recent Rise in Scarlet Fever Cases.

With three new cases of scarlet fever reported to the health department during the past week, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, today warned parents to guard their children against the disease.

The new cases, two of which were in the city, increases the number of cases reported in Richland county during the past month to 22. This is 11 less than was reported in October, 1938.

Dr. Rehder said there was no cause for alarm since the disease was less prevalent than last year, but warned of the complications that might result.

"With the opening of school we look for a rise in contagion but parents should protect the other pupils as well as their own children by keeping at home a child who complains of a sore throat," he added.

CLEVELAND TOLL 91

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Cleveland's traffic toll today stood at 91, as compared to 106 at this time a year ago, following the death of Prospero Saunders, 68, of injuries suffered when he walked into the side of a moving automobile.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Provisions For Recall Of Ham-and-Eggs Dictator In California Are Ludicrous

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES—The only cause that has been offered for the indorsement of the anti-strike provision and the other dictatorial clauses of the ham-'n'-eggs plan by the Communistic California CIO, is a section which occurs along toward the end of the proposal, providing for the recall of the dictator by the usual method.

For a fact, that makes it funnier, and it is likely that one of the brothers in the mutually suspicious band of promoters who dreamed up this weird disturbance inserted the recall clause as a precaution.

It might be used to remind Mr. Roy Owens, the nominee for dictator, of his obligations to his partners in the Ham-'n'-Eggs business and curb any tendency on his part to deny them the rewards of selfless service to the cause.

On what grounds Owens could be recalled it is difficult to conceive, however, inasmuch as another provision of the article, in plain, vigorous language, forbids any interference with the administration of the ham-'n'-eggs plan, even by the courts; another empowers him to interpret the intent and spirit of the act, subject to no review or superior authority, and still another forbids all persons to curtail any capacity to produce goods, services, conveniences or comforts.

These provisions are among the few little blurts salted away amid the ingenious confusion of the counterfeiting plan which are couched in plain and vigorous language, and they do not occur in the sequence in which I have arranged them, but are deliberately scattered and mixed so as to conceal their relationship.

Strung together, however, they spell just what they seem to spell, and, in spelling them out it is important to remember that the capacity to produce goods, services, conveniences or comforts is personal in the case of each individual.

Under his powers, Brother Owens obviously might decide that his associates—the brothers Allen, for instance—were unlawfully curtailing their own capacity to produce little rocks out of big ones, and, by the words of their own amendment, they would have no case for recall against him on that score.

On the contrary, Brother Owens would be doing no more than his duty under the "command" of the people of California and the Brothers Allen, who are toiling so loyally to clothe him with these powers, and this boundless discretion would have no redress short of personal revolution, which always causes ill health or worse in the revolutionary order under dictatorial government.

The Communist California CIO, however, which indorsed the anti-strike and other dictatorial proposals in obedience to the party line, forbids itself the comfort of the recall as an exception to anti-labor measures.

If Brother Owens should forbid and suppress a strike of CIO longshoremen or pickers of the grapes of wrath, he would only be doing the very thing that the CIO has approved in its indorsement of the plan as a whole. The Communists could not ask his recall on such grounds, for they have said that they believe it would be a good thing to empower one man to suppress strikes. That power is plainly provided in the clause against the curtailment of production and so forth, and the CIO has plainly approved the idea.

The Communists could not have overlooked the meaning of this provision, for they are very bright at reading the plain meanings of all sorts of proposals and detecting hidden meanings, too.

For that matter, under dictatorial government, the Communists, including those of the California CIO, seriously disapprove of strikes, a fact that is borne out by reference to the news from Russia, which has revealed no strike since the workers were liberated. It is only under capitalism that the workers enjoy the right to strike and the Communists are not capitalists.

Therefore, under Brother Owens of the ham-'n'-eggs plan, if he should do his stuff, thoroughly and avoid weakness in his administration the California CIO would have no reason to ask his recall. On the contrary they would be obliged to resist any movement to recall him.

Therefore, so long as Brother Owens behaves himself, putting down strikes with a firm hand, driving the longshoremen back to their work and stretching the hours of toil in all lines to the limit of the productive capacity of the people, he would be carrying out the plan which the Communistic California CIO has solemnly decided to support.

He might be recalled for misconduct, if any conduct could be shown in a man with such vast authority, but not for putting down a strike of the CIO—that would not be misconduct. The CIO would have to give him a cheer for that, according to the terms of its own commitment and the ham'n'-eggs amendment.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It would be hard to convince a struggling extra girl who is starving in a garret but one of the toughest obstacles to real acting attainments in Hollywood is money.

When papa has a million or two, and daughter decides it would be great sport to have a movie career, the result for daughter is usually just that: great sport for a couple of weeks or months and then fade-out: back to the weary grind of dull teas and bridges and balls and all the things that make life so dreary for the poor little rich girls.

When daughter doesn't really have to keep appointments with dramatic coaches, when her fee for reporting on a movie set on time is less than her customary pin money, daughter has to starch her backbone if she means to get places. Usually daughter says "Aw, nuts!"—throws her slipper at the alarm and curves her backbone over her two-foot-deep featherbed for more shut-eye.

But I've just met one who isn't letting papa's money stand in the way. One who not only is getting places but practically keeps it a secret that papa could relieve her of the necessity to work any time she felt like asking.

Her name is Fay Helm. She's a little thing with red hair and brown eyes and a competent sincerity of purpose about her that challenges interest. She never mentions money, herself, unless you happen to ask, in which case she hastens to make it clear that she's on her own, and lives entirely on her picture earnings, which during her first year in Hollywood weren't sufficient to feed a healthy canary.

"I came to town with a stake—a girl would be foolish to come without any money," she says. "But I was on my own, definitely, and I had to make good or fail just like anybody else. Since I'd wanted to act all my life, I had to make good."

Fay is 24. Three years ago she left Bakersfield, Calif. (where papa has a little oil), to join a tent show. Grand experience, but no money. She went to the University of Oregon ("for dramatic work and fishing") and worked in the Portland Civic theater, but when she hit Hollywood all the "pull" she had was a letter to Oliver Hinsdell, then the Metro talent coach. Hinsdell gave her a screen test, void because she looked and talked too much like Helen Hayes. But she got a bit or two from it, and stuck it out in Hollywood.

She began attracting attention only this year, playing that factory girl with Bob Burns in "Our Leading Citizen." Since then she's had good roles—all characters, no glamor stuff for Fay!—in "A Child Is Born," "Untamed," "Women Behind Bars," "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and "Parole Fixer." She "aged" from 40 to 70 in one of her roles, would like to try it again.

—Advice—

Should Remedy Conditions

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

If we were to read of the problem of this 17-year old girl and it hadn't, as a date-line, one of our principal cities, we'd say smuggly: "That couldn't happen here in the United States."

The case of the poor little poor girl, neither of whose divorced parents want to give her a home—the remarried father, becaues he has only a two-room flat, and the remarried mother because she says "the girl won't obey me and help wash the dishes," is something to think about.

Asked what women could do to help keep this country out of war, Mrs. Roosevelt answered at her press conference that women should know conditions in their own community, that she was amazed, in traveling about the country, to realize that often people who escorted her were often seeing their home conditions for the first time.

But to return to the case of this rejected child, from a home broken by divorce, the only solution offered will seem amazing to a good many of us. The judge who had studied the case of this 17-year-old girl six months ago and had given the child to her mother's custody as an experiment, seemed to think the only way out of the difficulty was to marry her off.

There was no waiting suitor, no deeply-in-love young man impatiently waiting for his bride. The plan, as proposed by the kindly judge, was more suggestive of the Orient than this "Land of the Free." It seems that some people regard the Judicial office as more or less of a matrimonial bureau, and write to judges to pick out husbands and wives for them. So the judge thumbed through a sheaf of letters and said: "I'll look into these marriage proposals that have come in the mail. Here's a college man from New York who says he'll marry this girl and give her a home. I'll take the case under advisement.

Judging from her picture, the girl is charmingly pretty, with a sensitive little face under a big floppy hat tied with a narrow velvet ribbon tied under the chin. Looking at it, we hope this marriage to the strange young man who offers to give her a home, will turn out well. But—one's good old-fashioned Americanism suffers a shock. Isn't there some other solution?

Is there no educational institution in these United States willing to give this girl a chance to train her to earn her own livelihood, instead of turning her over to a strange young man in this Oriental fashion?

In the July number of an American magazine, Pearl Buck winner of the Nobel prize, had a stirring article on "America's Gunpowder Women," and the laissez-faire manner in which they accept conditions in this country which should be remedied.

Looking 'round our well furnished women's club—I belong to several myself—it seems at times to me that we might play less bridge and take less seriously the question of our non-fattening luncheons. For whether we realize it or not, there are things of more importance.

But now, happily, at long last, comes the information that the paternal grandfather of this homeless girl has volunteered to take her "where she'll find love and understanding."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Lillian's eyes followed mine to the woman to whom Harry had called our attention when we first entered the restaurant. She had lost all her pretense of indifference to what was going on around her, and had her face turned directly toward the woman and her gangster companion we also were watching. But while our interest was concealed and furtive, hers was distinctly in the open.

Lillian took one look at her, and then spoke under her breath to her husband.

"Pipe the dame in the blonde wig!" she adjured him.

"I've already done that little thing," he told her. "Best not look at her any more. She's due for an explosion any second, and we don't want to get near enough to be hit by the pieces."

"Harry!" Lillian said imperatively, yet keeping her voice muted. "You sound as if you know who that woman is. Do you?"

"I am not sure," her big husband replied. "But suppose that I have recognized her, what then?"

"I could take you apart piece by piece," his wife said darkly. "Do Madge and I know her?"

"I don't know," he returned. "You may think you do, but I doubt it. However, we've got something more important on our minds than that dame. They haven't said a word for a whole half minute, and they're about due to broadcast again. By the Lord Harry! They've lamped the woman looking at them. This promises to be interesting."

This time Harry read their lips.

"Lamp that bird over there with the blonde hair," the man muttered. "She's been watching us. Do you suppose she belongs to the federal bunch?"

"Use your head!" the woman adjured, and again I had the impression that she was brainier, cooler in emergency and more dangerous than her companion. "If a Fed dame wanted to put on an act, she'd stage a better one than that. A woman could lamp that wig a mile off."

"A wig!" the man said feebly.

"Yes, big boy, a wig. But just a second. I'm going to take the starch out of her. You wait here, and see that neither your eyes nor your voice let her know you're scared almost out of what few wits you have."

"I'm not scared," the man said sulkily.

"Tell that to your grandchildren for a fairy story. So long!"

"You devil, you're not really—" the man began. But he was talking futilely to the retreating back of his companion who was rapidly approaching the table of the disguised woman. And then Harry Underwood's voice gave us a warning.

"Get on your toes! We may have to take chips in this game. But don't do anything unless I give you the high sign.

Our eyes were already fixed upon the face of the disguised woman. She was plainly petrified for an instant at the approach of the woman she had been watching. Then as the woman neared her head was thrown back in a gesture of proud contempt. If she knew the woman approaching her, she had no favorable opinion of her, that was plain.

Then the voice of the standing woman sounded.

"Pardon me, please," she said with mincing affectation, "but haven't we met before?"

Make More Use of Vegetables

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

FOR A GOOD, hefty vegetable dish, serve vegetables en casserole. Eight servings can be made from one cup rice, one small cubed turnip, one cup canned peas, one cup canned tomatoes, one sliced onion, four thinly-sliced, medium-sized potatoes, teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-eighth teaspoon allspice, four cups brown stock. Wash rice thoroughly. Put ingredients, except stock in alternate layers in casserole, pour on stock, cover and cook in slow oven at 500° F. for three hours.

Beef Brisket cooked with lima beans and rice is a grand cold weather dinner dish. Half cup rice, one and one-half pounds beef brisket, one medium-sized sliced onion, two cups lima beans, one-half cup vinegar, one and one-half teaspoons salt, pepper and two tablespoons brown sugar will yield six servings. Cut meat into 2-inch squares, put in a stew kettle and cover with water. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add onion and bring to boiling point. Add the beans which, if dried, have been soaked for several hours. Add the rice. Cook at a low temperature until meat is tender. About 10 minutes before serving dissolve the sugar in frying pan, then add the vinegar and stir until a syrup is formed. Add to the meat and vegetables and serve.

Rice Tamale Puree.

Rice Tamale Puree is made with one cup rice, one can tomato puree, one-half cup green olives, salt, pepper, two teaspoons chili powder, two cups cooked meat or chicken, minced, and two cups meat gravy or broth. Wash rice thoroughly, boil and drain. Combine the ingredients and bake in buttered baking dish for an hour at 350° F. Yield: six servings.

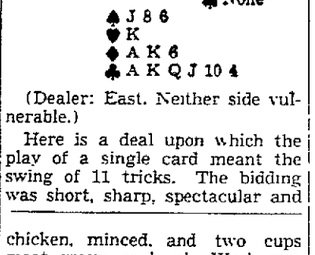
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

BRIDGE enthusiasts who think contract is mainly a bidding contest will do well to remember that old quotation from Shakespeare. The bidding is really nothing more nor less than an effort to forecast the play, which fundamentally is the heart and soul of any form of bridge. In many a case, regardless of how the bidding may have gone, the play of a single card can mean a difference of 10 tricks or more.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here is a deal upon which the play of a single card meant the swing of 11 tricks. The bidding was short, sharp, spectacular and somewhat peculiar, although also somewhat logical. East had called 1-Heart, South then called 3-No Trumps, because he expected a heart lead and a duck of the first trick. East doubled and South redoubled. West led the heart 9 and East decided to play the 10, expecting South to have a guarded king. The result was that South took 13 consecutive tricks.

Had East seen fit to play the heart ace on the first trick, his side would have taken the first 11 tricks.

After West opens with 4-Hearts here, what should his opponents do?

8 new ways to make ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

● You can now have delicious All-Bran muffins every day in the week and not serve the same kind twice! Just start with the basic recipe that you will find below, and do any one of these eight things for a delightful variation:

1. For BACON MUFFINS add ¼ cup crisp-cooked, diced bacon to dry ingredients.
2. For NUT MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.
3. For ORANGE MUFFINS add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind to dry ingredients.
4. For PRUNE MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped prunes to dry ingredients. (Soak dried prunes in water one hour or longer, drain, remove pits, cut in small pieces.)
5. For RAISIN MUFFINS add ½ cup raisins to dry ingredients.
6. For DATE MUFFINS substitute ½ cup sliced dates.
7. For FIG MUFFINS substitute ½ cup chopped figs.
8. For SPICED MUFFINS 1 tablespoon molasses to creamed mixture and ¼ teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.

THIS IS THE BASIC BRAN MUFFIN RECIPE:

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in All-Bran and milk, let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder, add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.
Yield. 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2¼ inches in diameter).

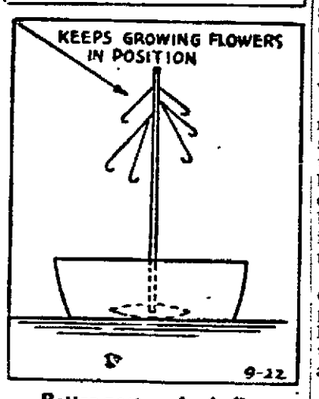
Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek

All Bran Recipes will be demonstrated at The Mansfield News-Journal National Livestock and Meat Board Cooking School.

Today's Garden-Graph



Better posture for bulbs

Often when growing bulbs indoors in bowls containing fiber, stone chips or pebbles, one is faced with the problem of how to keep them from falling to one side as they attain height.

As shown in the Garden-Graph there is now a new gadget which stands firmly in the center of the bowl and, like a watchful school teacher, sees to it that the bulbs maintain proper posture. The six hooked wires which support the foliage and flowers of the plants can be placed in any position. This device provides splendid support for the tall-growing paper white narcissus, or the heavy heads of hyacinth blooms.

When in position this support is hardly noticeable as the bottom of it is covered with fiber or chips, and the wires are concealed by the foliage.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, November 8.

LIVELY and interesting occurrences are read from the predominant planetary aspects, with much stirring in both business and intimate relations. The social, sentimental, artistic or intellectual aspect may be uppermost, calling for some drastic maneuvering to successfully put over major programs. This may involve minor changes, not entirely satisfactory, but in all be guided by personal intuitions rather than suggestions of others. Refrain from irritability and acting on impulses.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and fruitful year, with much definite action in business as well as in the realm of the artistic, social, emotional or intellectual. In making changes be guided by insistent intuitional guidance rather than impulsive urges or the advice of questionable friends. Much is to be expected from creative work in artistic lines—drama, music, literature—where determined application should win recognition.

A child born on this day may be particularly versatile, probably in the direction of the allied arts or in literature. Its energy, skill and creative ability should win success.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

CONGRATULATED ON GOLDEN JUBILEE YEAR

Round Table Members Receive Messages; Paper on Democracy Read By Mrs. Scattergood; Sealed Program Planned.

MESSAGES of congratulations and good wishes from charter members and from other study clubs in the city relative to the golden jubilee of the Round Table club were read yesterday at the meeting which was held with Mrs. Clayton Wagner, 450 Park avenue west. There were 25 present when plans for the year's celebration were made.

Dorothy Blackstone and Charles Betz, Mansfield Senior high school students, spoke briefly on the three-mill levy, and Mrs. H. L. Creveling discussed the Bigelow amendments.

The program included a paper "The Place of Radio In Democracy," prepared by Mrs. May Moore from the discussion held recently by the University of Chicago round table, and read by Mrs. Hobart Scattergood. A general discussion on democracy followed with Mrs. E. O. Townsend, Mrs. Edwin Mansfield and Mrs. Van C. Cook participating.

Members will meet Nov. 20 for a sealed program with Mrs. Cook who will entertain at the Women's Club.

Elect Officers Of Eastern Star Lodge Monday

MISS Pearl Wierman was elected worthy matron of Ruth chapter, Order of the Eastern Star yesterday evening during a meeting of the lodge at the Masonic temple, and William Dice was chosen worthy patron. Mrs. Miriam Gross, worthy matron, was in charge of the session which was attended by 115 members and a number of out-of-town guests.

Other newly elected officers are: Mrs. Ruth Keefe, associate matron; William Burrier, associate patron; Mrs. Sara B. Ford, secretary; Mrs. Laura Brubaker, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Rains, conductress; Mrs. Miriam Hoffman, associate conductress; and trustee, Claude M. Hunter, who will serve for three years.

Mrs. Gross held initiation for four new members and announced that she and her officers of this year would conduct public memorial services at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 26 at the temple. Miss Lenora Horn, chairman of the memorial committee, Miss Ada Shuler and Mrs. Louisa Ruhl will be in charge at that time. At the next regular lodge session, Nov. 20, Mrs. Gross and Miss Wierman will present reports on the Grand Chapter session, held at Toledo in October.

HOME SESSION.

Members of the Women's Label league of Richland county met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Subich, 316 Fifth avenue, last evening. Seasonable appointments decorated the large table when luncheon was served following the business session. On Nov. 20 members of the group will entertain their families with a covered-dish dinner at C. I. O. hall.

Sunday Nuptials Read At St. Paul Lutheran Church

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon before the altar of St. Paul Lutheran church Rev. Herman L. Gilbert read the nuptial ceremony which united in marriage Miss Madonna Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Harmon, R. D. 4, and John Lewis Oswalt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Oswalt, Lucas.

For her marriage the former Miss Harmon was attired in a teal blue tailored suit. With it she wore a white blouse, black shoes and a black picture hat. Her corsage was of white rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Helen Snook who wore a beaver brown crepe dress with teal accessories, and a shoulder corsage of pink rose buds. Robert Crawford, Lucas, was best man.

A reception was held at the Harmon home after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Oswalt are now at home at 50 Vennum avenue. The bride was employed at the S. S. Kresge company, and Mr. Oswalt is an employe of the Humphryes Manufacturing company.

Activities of Social Clubs

Mrs. Clarita Dawson was elected president of Les Femmes club last night when Miss Elsie France, Park avenue west, entertained. Miss Margaret Hachschud was named secretary-treasurer. Following the business meeting a two-course luncheon was served at a long table decorated in cream and green, and centered with a bouquet of pompons. Mrs. Dawson will be the next hostess.

Plans for a dinner to be held at the Towne House Nov. 20 were made last night when Mrs. Clayton Wheitner entertained members of the A. B. C. club at her home, 88 East Second street. The hostess served a luncheon at a long table decorated with a centerpiece of fruit and candles, and Tranksgiving appointments.

Russian Music Studied By Group, Members Perform

A CONTINUATION of the program on modern Russian music was conducted last night when members of the Mansfield Music Study club met at the Women's Club with Mrs. George Gernhardt, Jr., as hostess. Miss Louise Krause was in charge of the program, and presented Sigurd Jorgensen, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Cahall.

He played "Hymn to the Sun" by Rimsky-Korsakov and "Melody in E Flat" by Tschaikowsky. Mrs. Charles Anglin, accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell then sang "O, Could I But Express in Song," by Malashkin, "The Hills of Gruzia" by Madnikoff, and "Tilim Bom," by Stravinsky.

Pavy Watts sang "Over the Steppes," by Gretchoninoff, and "To the Children" and "In the Silent Night" by Rechmaninoff. Miss Krause concluded the program by playing the recording. "The Firebird" by Stravinsky. Mrs. Watts gave a paper on current musical events.

The next meeting will be Nov. 20 at the Women's Club with Miss Helen Hartman, program chairman, and Mrs. Charles Schafer as hostess. Modern French music will be the subject.

Zeto Rho Chapter Has Social At Anderson's

Members of the Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau were entertained at a social meeting held last night with Miss Bette Anderson, Davis road. Miss Kay Baker served as associate hostess. Contract bridge was played in the recreation room after which refreshments were served.

Miss Virginia Stevick and Miss Baker won the prizes. The next meeting will be held Nov. 20 at the home of Miss Catherine Forshee, Maple street. It will be a business session.

Mrs. Graf Welcomed To Club At Meeting With Mrs. Williams

MRS. LISTER GRAF of Loudonville was welcomed as a new member of the Chi Omega Alumnae club yesterday evening during a meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Carl Williams on Elmwood drive. Miss Kathryn Cole of Loudonville was the associate hostess.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Robert Beck, recently elected president, and she appointed the Misses Florence Robison and Mary Jean McCormick to represent the sorority in the Dental Clinic. Miss Marianne Springer, vice president and program chairman, named Mrs. Emmeline Simmons of Plymouth, Mrs. Harold Lents of Ashland and Mrs. Beck as members of the program committee.

Plans were formulated for a Christmas party to be held on Dec. 4 at the home of Mrs. H. M. Butzloff, 411 Scholl road. Miss Wilma Walker, Miss McCormick and Mrs. Williams will be her associates at that time, when the group will have a gift exchange and fill a Christmas charity basket.

During the evening's program, Mrs. Williams gave a review of the most recent issue of the sorority's magazine. When luncheon was served, Mrs. Beck presided at the buffet table, which was lighted with tall yellow tapers and decorated with appointments in the sorority colors.

Two Papers Presented At Beta Sigma Phi

"Prose" was the title of the paper presented by Miss Dorothy Horchler last night at the meeting of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority at the home of Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer, Highland avenue. Miss Ardis Linzee assisted her. Miss Barbara Keene reported plans for the annual Christmas dance to be held Dec. 22.

Mrs. Howard Peck gave a talk on "Medicine." Mrs. John McCann, Edgewood road, will entertain the sorority on Nov. 20. Refreshments were served at the close of the session, and Miss Horchler poured.

MISS PALMER TALKS ON NURSING GROUP

Tells Physicians of Organization In Mansfield; Mrs. W. L. Merz, Mrs. H. T. Stiles Serve as Hostesses.

MISS MARJORIE PALMER, who spoke on "Our Visiting Nurse," was introduced to members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Richland County Medical Association yesterday afternoon at the Women's Club by Mrs. F. H. Maxwell. Miss Palmer stated that the Visiting Nurses association had been established in Mansfield 25 years ago by the late Miss Helen Hayden.

The nurses serve the entire city, and Madison township doing all types of nursing. While the association works in co-operation with the health department it is separately controlled and operated. It is controlled by an executive and general board, deriving funds from the Community Fund, patients' fees, and insurance companies.

During the social hour tea was served with Mrs. C. L. Hamman, Plymouth, presiding at the table. During the business session Mrs. C. L. Damron and Mrs. Roy I. Curry were appointed representatives to the dental clinic. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the Women's Club Dec. 4 with Mrs. O. H. Schettler and Mrs. F. W. Gillig serving as hostesses.

Mrs. W. L. Merz and Mrs. H. T. Stiles received the 25 who were present at the club yesterday.

Tygers' Next Foe One of Two Clubs to Stop Hume

Five Miami Gridders on Hospital List.

OXFORD—(AP)—Five Miami university football regulars lay in a hospital today with injuries suffered in last Saturday's tilt with Detroit Tech. The hospitalized are Art Evans, of Oxford, tackle; and Backs John Snyder, of Massillon; Robert Barker, of Dayton; Mel Rebholz, of Cincinnati, and Angelo Famiano, of Cleveland.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ATTEMPTS to obtain a post-season game for the Tygers have not met with much success.

In fact, Mansfield high school officials are still searching for an opponent for the proposed Thanksgiving day game with which they hoped to raise sufficient funds to enable the band to purchase new uniforms.

They are nearing the end of possibilities, and it may be necessary to call the whole thing off.

It is hoped that this will not be the case as the band is in dire need of new raiment, as you have probably noticed at the tooters' recent appearances, but there is little that the school officials can do about it if no opponent can be contracted.

The first school approached for the Turkey day football fiesta was Mooseheart, Ill., where the model children's home sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose is located. Mooseheart rejected the bid due to the school's policy on post-season games.

New Philadelphia, which defeated the Tygers, 20 to 0, this season, would have made the game an attraction, but it has a traditional rivalry with Dover which is annually staged on the holiday.

Alliance, which features the great Hillis Hume, was unable to accept the Tygers' invitation as it is also scheduled on that day.

Columbus West, one of the few undefeated clubs in the state, and North were contacted. West turned the proposition down cold. North appeared interested, then rejected the bid.

Marion Harding, new champion of the N. C. O. conference, was reported to be interested in a post-season tussle with Mansfield, but the rumor was not instigated at the school.

Marion wanted no part of Mansfield, judging from the rejection of the invitation. The Presidents' refusal to play is understandable. Wasn't it an official of Marion high school who brought on the pressure which resulted in Mansfield's withdrawal from the N. C. O. wheel?

Mansfield will communicate with other possibilities within the next few days, and, if they refuse, the Mansfield high band will have to look elsewhere for assistance in the purchase of uniforms.

If the game does not materialize, Mansfield school and athletic officials cannot be blamed. They made a sincere effort to provide Mansfield with a first-class football attraction on Turkey day and supply funds for band uniforms.

There's Reason for Calling Zuppke 'Cagey.'

ROBERT CARL ZUPPKE, 60-year-old University of Illinois coach, isn't known as one of the country's cagiest football teachers for nothing

It has been a long time between upsets these past few years, but the wily Dutchman made up for lost time last week when the Illini astounded the football faithful by whipping Michigan's hitherto undefeated eleven in decisive fashion.

Zuppke and his teams have been sneaking up on the blind side of powerful opponents for many years.

"Just like Minnesota in 1916," said Zuppke after Saturday's game in explanation of the upset 16-7 victory. That was the year the Gophers' "dream team" rolled over all its opponents up to the Illinois game by scores of 46 to 0 or worse, its victims including strong elevens at Iowa, Wisconsin and Chicago.

Illinois had lost two games and rated not even an outside chance to win. Walter Camp, father of the "All-America" selections and an astute grid critic, came west to see the slaughter, but instead saw Zuppke's undermanned eleven clip the Gophers, 14 to 9.

In 1921 Zuppke pulled another big upset. That was the year Ohio State needed only a victory over Illini, which had not won a conference game, for a share of the title. Eleven men played the entire game and won on an intercepted pass, 7 to 0.

Illinois knocked Wisconsin out of the conference title in 1942 when Rune Clark dropkicked a field goal to whip the Badgers, 3-0, in a game rated a setup for the favored eleven. Other surprise decisions for Zuppke's teams include a 19 to 0 victory over Southern California in 1934; a 6-0 triumph over Northwestern in 1937 and a 17 to 7 decision over Army and Red Cagle in 1929.

Zuppke's machine entertains Wisconsin, Big Ten cellar team, this week. The Badgers have lost three conference games. Illinois has yet to play Ohio State and Chicago after Saturday's test.

CAGE PLAYERS MEET.

Sponsors and team captains of teams planning to enter the Friendly House Senior basketball league will hold an organization meeting at the settlement at 7:30 p. m. today.

Aw, Not Football, Too---!

(AP Feature Service Writer)

TENNIS, golf, basketball, softball, and even baseball have been invaded by the "weaker sex"—and now it looks as if they're not even going to let football be exclusively a man's game.

Elbert Barrett, Freshman coach at Western State college, Gunnison, Colo., concedes that "in skimpy shorts and jerseys, Betty Coed can make a pretty darn good showing on the football field."

Fullback Sanders, shown drop-kicking in this picture, is evidence enough to prove his statement. She was one of the stars of a recent game played between upper classmen and freshmen and sophomores at Western State.

The "powder bowl" game was the indirect result of a recent claim in Colorado that girls' constitutions are too delicate to withstand the rigors of drum majoretting.

The girls retorted that they not only can wield a snappy baton, but also can do a creditable job at footballing. They disdained "sissy stuff" like heavy hip pads—but did wear headgears.

They liked the game so well they're planning to make it an annual event.

BOWLING SCORES

Kiwanis, Schoolmasters Tied For First Place in Club League.

THE Kiwanis and Schoolmaster clubs were tied for first place following last night's matches in the Club league at the Meder alleys.

Two victories over the Schoolmasters in the all-important match enabled the Kiwanians to obtain a share of the top berth.

And the Liederkranz club and J. A. C. clubs swept their matches with the Tracy & Avery club and Page Dairys, respectively, to creep into a third place tie with the Richman Clothes, who dropped two tilts to the Mansfield Savings Bank, led by Sherman Wentz' 606. These three teams are only one game behind the leaders in the tight race.

The best scoring totals of the night were registered by Art Hilborn of the Optimists, who hit 616, and the Liederkranz club, which came through with 2693.

State Battle Tight

Ten Teams Boast 8 Straight Victories in Ohio High School Grid Race.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Another oral argument on the Ohio high school football championship for 1939 loomed today as 10 teams teams approached the end of the campaign with perfect records of eight wins in a row, and six others were right behind them with seven straight.

And to make it even tougher to put your finger on who should wear the crown, there were 13 other top-notchers who had not bowed to any foe, but who had been forced to accept deadlocks.

Four teams, Bellville, Coshocton, Bellaire and Middleport, dropped into the defeated class for the first time last week, and each put up a terrific scrap to stay on the "clean" side.

Bellville lost by the greatest margin—13 to 7—Mansfield Madison coming from behind in the last 20 seconds with a Bob Matthes to Bob Heichel pass. Cambridge beat Coshocton 3 to 0 with substitute end Koskar's 40-yard field goal; New Philadelphia kept its record clear by blasting Bellaire out of the running by 6 to 2, while Logan stayed at the peak by handing Middleport its first setback in a 21 to 20 thriller, the victors getting 14 in the last period to come from behind.

Leading the pack with eight straight, with the scores of last week's games, are: Massillon (47, Canton Lehman 6); Logan (21, Middleport 20); West Jefferson (52, Columbus Holy Family 0); Columbus West (20, Columbus East 6); Grandview (24, Westerville 0); Crestline (13, Shelby 0); Orrville (41, Millersburg 13); Toledo Waite (33, Knoxville, Tenn., 0); Conneaut (20, Greenville, Pa., 0), and Celina (42, Coldwater 0).

Those with seven in a row are: Hamilton (34, Dayton Fairview 7); Akron St. Vincent (14, Akron West 9); Lima South (8, Wapakoneta 2); Hudson (6, Norton 0); Rockford (12, Versailles 7), and Cleveland John Adams (19, Cleveland Collingwood 8).

Out of the hundreds of touchdowns made over the week-end, that of Halfback Raymond Sibold of Mt. Cory was the most spectacular and also the most futile. Raymond intercepted a Liberty (Hancock county) pass in his own end zone and raced 103 yards for the score—the year's longest jaunt—but his team lost 40 to 6.

Howard Hamilton of Bellville scored seven points against Mansfield Madison as his team lost its first in eight starts, running his total to 125 for the season—the state's high mark. Bob Shaw of Fremont Ross is second with 117 after a 19-point splurge in the 20-7 win over Tiffin, and Bob Frye of Crestline scored a touchdown in his team's final game to run up a third place 110.

Hillis Hume of Alliance, third last year with 146, hopped into fourth place with 108, getting four touchdowns against Barberton after going scoreless during October.

Others at the century mark are Glen Wittekind of Marietta, 107; Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton, 104, and Ken (Taters) Basinger of Pandora, 100. "Taters" was the big scorer last week with 30 points in the 52-0 rout of Leipsic, while Wittekind was next with 29 as the Pioneers romped over Newcomerstown, 67 to 0.

Vols Continue In Poll Lead

Tennessee Gets 88 Votes for First Place on A-P Ballot.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Although Tennessee is again rated the best football team in the country, the outstanding game on this week's schedule is Texas A. and M. against Southern Methodist.

That much probably could be figured by any fan without the assistance of the weekly Associated Press national football ranking poll, but the tabulated votes of the experts prove it.

Tennessee, for the third straight week, is ranked far ahead of all rivals. The Vols, riding high on last Saturday's 20-0 triumph over Louisiana State, polled the first-place votes of 88 of the 118 participants and a total of 1,114 points this week. But next Saturday they go into hibernation again, meeting the Citadel of Charleston, S. C., last-place team of the Southern conference.

Standings of the teams (points figured on 10-9-8-7-6, etc. basis with first-place votes in parentheses):

Team	Points
1. Tennessee (88)	1,114
2. Notre Dame (11)	957
3. Texas A. and M. (6)	854
4. Southern California (6)	799
5. Cornell (3)	709
6. Oklahoma (3)	622
7. North Carolina	391½
8. Tulane	390½
9. Michigan	104
10. (Tie) Ohio State	102
10. (10) U. C. L. A.	102

Second ten: 12, Duquesne, 86; 13, Dartmouth, 70, 14, Southern Methodist 69, 15, Santa Clara, 58; 16, Duke, 46 17, New York U., 24; 18, Kentucky, 23 19, San Jose (Calif.) State, 12, 20, Mississippi, 9.

GALENTO AND BAER TO TANGLE IN FEBRUARY

NEW YORK —(UP)— Tony Galento and Maxie Baer will tangle in a 15-round brawl at New York or Miami, Fla., in late February under Mike Jacobs' promotion.

That's what Galento's manager, Joe (Yussel-the-Muscle) Jacobs, assured the social chroniclers of Anesthesia avenue today. Jacobs said that two-ton Tony is down in Miami now, taking a rest. He plans to return to his Orange, N. J., tavern next week.

Trouble Brews For Unbeaten Notre Dame

Rapid Improvement of Surprising Iowa Club Spells Major Hazard for Fighting Irish.

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO—(U P)—Notre Dame again rules midwestern football but out where the tall corn grows the surprise team of the year is brewing trouble for the undefeated Irish.

Iowa, with a new coach and an unfamiliar system, is in second place in the Big Ten, trailing only Ohio State, and its rapid rate of improvement spells a major hazard for Notre Dame this week on a Saturday originally considered as the one real breather on the Irish schedule.

When Dr. Eddie Anderson deserted Holy Cross to begin his reconstruction at Iowa he expected to take three years to bring the disorganized, disinterested Hawkeyes out of their slump. He did it in three weeks.

Iowa has won three conference games, losing to Michigan on an assortment of the toughest breaks in the books.

With Michigan bumped out of the undefeated, untied group by an alert Illinois team, Ohio State leads the conference with three victories and no defeats. Unless Bob Zuppke can turn his average Illini into another squad of inspired dervishes for the Ohio State game, the Bucks will gain at least a share of the championship without much exertion. Remaining on the schedule are Chicago, Illinois and Michigan.

Ohio State's 24 to 0 victory over strong Indiana was impressive after that defeat by Cornell the week before. Return of Francis Schmidt's injured tackles placed the squad at full strength and it appears to be the best all-around team in the Big Ten.

It took the upset of the year to eliminate Michigan. Illinois, rated at least two touchdowns inferior, rigged up a shifting defense for Michigan's Tommy Harmon and kept him struggling behind the line of scrimmage on all but two important occasions. With Harmon shackled, the Illini hauled out the old sleeper pass play, kicked a field goal, and marched 33 yards to a touchdown in the fourth. Final score: 16 to 7.

Michigan meets Minnesota this week. Illinois plays Wisconsin, Purdue plays at Northwestern, Ohio State comes in for a breeze with Chicago, Indiana meets Fordham at New York and Iowa plays Notre Dame.

Ohio State, Michigan, Northwestern and Iowa all have mathematical chances for the championship. Iowa's 4 to 0 upset at Purdue eliminated the Boilermakers, and Northwestern came to life at Minnesota, 14 to 7, on two neat runs by Bill DeCorrevont. One was a 13-yard dash setting up the first touchdown and the second, 61 yards from scrimmage, defeated the defending champions in the fourth period.

Badmiton League Opens at Y.M.C.A.

A. Y. M. C. A. handicap Badminton league swings into action at the Y. at 8 p. m. Thursday, Don D. Cram, physical director, announced today. The league, which is composed of 10 players, will play on Thursday and Mondays until January.

Opening matches are as follows: Robert Shade, vs. Robert Davis; Merritt Giles vs. Henry Schwier; William Harper vs. Carl Wappner; Robert Keefe vs. Fred Hart and Wayne Beal vs. Paul Reed. Monday's matches get under at 7:30 p. m., a half hour earlier than the Thursday affairs.

PLAN TO HELP CHICAGO OUT OF GRID DILEMMA

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Daily Maroon, University of Chicago student newspaper, reported today that 500 "loyal graduates" were planning a "secret meeting to decide on a way" to solve the school's football dilemma.

The paper did not disclose the time or place of the meeting, but said further details would be published later in the week. Chicago will observe homecoming this week-end when the grid team meets Ohio State's powerful machine.

POND DISSATISFIED WITH YALE BULLDOGS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. —(INS)— Coach Raymond "Ducky" Pond today expressed profound dissatisfaction with the type of football his Yale varsity team played in its defeat by Dartmouth Saturday but termed "ridiculous" a report that he had fired nine of his 11 regulars.

"There will be a slight change in personnel," Pond told International News Service, "but not more than one or two men will be affected."

GAME CALLED OFF

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university today abandoned the idea of having its football reserves clash with Purdue reserves Saturday.

Canton Beaten Twice

Bulldogs Show Improvement In 20 to 0 Victory Over Steubenville Team.

ONE of the two Ohio high school gridiron combines to successfully set up a defense that halted the touchdown sprints of Hillis Hume of Alliance this year will make its debut at 2:30 p. m. at Stadium field Saturday.

That team is Canton McKinley, which battled the Alliance club to a scoreless tie recently, and the Bulldogs invade Mansfield to clash with Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers in a tussle that should draw one of the largest gatherings of the season. The other team to hold Hume is Massillon.

Led by Andy Marantides, crack halfback, who has been the spearhead of the club's attack, McKinley comes here sporting a record of four victories and a tie in seven starts.

Although they dropped two decisions, one to Sandusky and the other to Warren, the Bulldogs, in both contests, held the edge on statistical basis.

McKinley suffered a 13 to 0 beating against Sandusky and lost the Warren setto by the same margin.

The Bulldogs are improving each week, and the way they walloped Steubenville, 20 to 0, last Saturday is causing Mentor Snyder considerable worry.

Coach Snyder, fearing a letdown following the Tygers' easy 40 to 0 triumph over Ashland last Saturday, is sending his proteges through hard practice sessions as he attempts to correct the flaws that bobbed up in the game.

Mansfield scored a 9 to 0 win over the Blue Streaks, but Snyder doesn't believe the Tygers have more than an even chance against Canton.

Among the teams McKinley has dusted off are Cleveland Lincoln, 7 to 2, Canton Lehman, 31 to 0, and Akron South, 6 to 2.

All tickets for the game will be reserved, it was announced today by George Sherman. Adult ducats will be 75c, while student tickets are 25c and grade school pupils will be admitted for 15c.

Tickets are on sale downtown at the Smokehouse, and Tawse, Brown and Central drug stores. Only the Brown and Central stores, however, have grade school tickets on sale.

Tickets sold at Stadium field Saturday will be 75c. There is no special prices for students and grade school pupils. Five hundred ducats have been sent to Canton.

Cleveland Officials To Listen to Offers

'But We'll Let the Other Clubs Come to Us,' Says Slapnicka, Who's Satisfied With Infield.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' David Harums are going to next month's baseball meetings disguised as introverts. "We'll have our eyes and ears open," said bespectacled Vice President C. C. Slapnicka today, "but we'll let the other clubs come to us."

Last winter the tribal bigwigs went as extroverts. Amid much ballyhoo they put half the club on the block, departed with high hopes and came back empty-handed.

The Indians aren't satisfied with a third-place ball club—even in the Yankees' American league—but the unexpected development of infield rookies late last summer sowed the seeds of their new independence.

Since the prime days of Shortstop Joe Sewell and Second Baseman Bill Wambsganss, a long string of tribal managers has tried countless players at the two positions.

Now Lou Boudreau, up from Buffalo; Ray Mack, a home town boy, and Oscar Grimes, the infield jack-of-all-trades, have the fans talking. Good-looking Boudreau, once a star at Illinois, looked like the find of the year in the short field. Grimes, the team's most aggressive player, and Mack, perhaps a little green yet, sparkled at second. For insurance, the club has purchased Russ Peters, crack shortstop of the Atlanta Southern association club.

"We could use another pitcher who would win 15 games," said Slapnicka, the "discoverer" of 24-game winner Bob Feller, "but then, who couldn't? We aren't going to trade any of the hurlers whose work in the closing weeks put us in third place."

This presumably means Feller, Mel Harder, Al Milnar and Harry Eisenstat.

Manager Oscar Vitt said recently, however, that any pitcher except Feller might be swapped in a "right" deal.

The Redskins could best bait their hook with pitchers and catchers. They want a right-handed hitting outfielder and have some flingers who might do better elsewhere and two of the league's best catchers in Rollie Hemsley and Frankie Pytlak. The veterans hurlers, Johnny Allen and Willis Hudlin, may go.

ISSUES VARY OVER NATION

Pensions, Race Betting and Prohibition Included on Ballots Over U. S.

velt's policies was in Kentucky, where Gov. Keen Johnson, Democrat who succeeded Gov. A. B. Chandler when the latter resigned to be appointed to the senate, sought election to the office he now holds. His Republican opponent, Circuit Judge King Swope, criticized the national administration in his campaign.

The only other gubernatorial election was in Mississippi, where Paul B. Johnson, Democrat, was unopposed.

National affairs were mentioned also in Philadelphia's mayoral race. Robert C. White, Democrat, was opposed by Robert E. Lamberton, Republican, who argued that a Democratic victory would diminish the national prestige of the Republican party.

Detroit's mayoral contest involved disputed claims of labor support. Edward Jefferies, jr., president of the city council, sought to defeat Mayor Richard Reading, who was elected two years ago over the opposition of the CIO. Reading charged that Jefferies favored the "radical element," while the latter's friends said that such CIO support as Jefferies received was due to the fact that the organization was more opposed to Reading.

San Francisco voters had eight candidates from whom to choose a mayor. Angelo J. Rossi, the incumbent, sought a third four-year term; his principal opponent was Franck R. Havenner, Democratic representative in congress.

Bigelow Plan Expected to Bring Out Near-Record Off-Year Figure.

the amendments, said: "People who should know tell me the pension plan is going to be beaten two to one in the state."

Dr. Mark Millikin, who with Bigelow was one of the three official sponsors of the pensions-at-60 and a companion proposal to lower signature requirements to bring issues to a popular vote, conceded defeat.

Bigelow refused comment on Millikin's statement, but said that rejection would be met by a new and more drastic plan.

Other state-wide issued voted today were:

A proposed constitutional amendment to reduce signatures required on petitions for initiative legislation (also sponsored by Bigelow);

An amendment to set up a state board of education which would name a director of education, now chosen by the governor, and

A referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service reorganization act.

Bigelow, a preacher-politician who estimated that his pension plan would cost no more than $60,000,000 yearly, predicted victory in an election eve statement.

"Reports from all over the state are amazingly encouraging," he said. "In Cleveland, for instance, poll after poll showed that we are gaining."

Aside from four state-wide issues, the election was confined entirely to local questions. Voters named mayors and other officials in 110 cities; chose 2,700 township trustees, 5,000 justices of the peace and constables, and 4,000 school board members. They also passed on 510 tax levies in 82 counties, $25,000,000 in bond issues and 75 local option propositions.

Chief interest in mayoralty campaigns was centered in Cleveland and Columbus, where the election climaxed bitter campaigns between Republican candidates.

Mayor Harold H. Burton was opposed in Cleveland by John E. O'Donnell, member of the board of education. At Columbus, Mayor Myron B. Gessaman sought re-election against Floyd F. Green, former councilman. The candidates were nominated in non-partisan primaries.

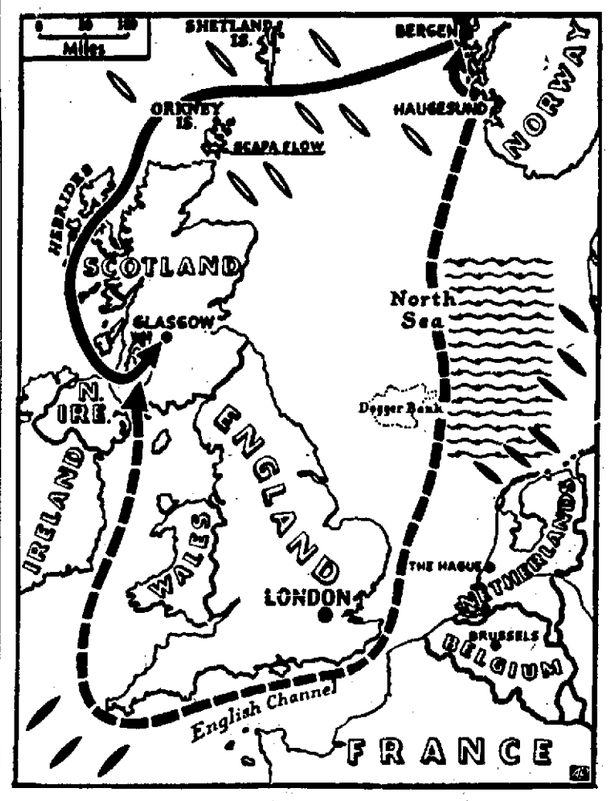
Where Flint Faces Perils



With its crew calling it a "marked ship," the City of Flint is anchored at Bergen, Norway, with the next step a puzzle to all concerned. It was undecided whether the ship should head for home, or attempt to sail to Glasgow, one of her original ports of call. If decision should be made to go to Glasgow, two routes would be possible—as indicated on this map. The solid line is the northern route, through British blockade patrols. Dotted line shows alternate route, skirting area of German mine fields and submarine patrol.

George Fisher, Commander of McLaughlin Post, Dies in Illinois at Age 94.

in Indiana Dec. 14, 1844 and would have been 95 next month.

He was 17 years old when the Civil war opened and some time later joined the Union ranks to serve two years in the 123rd Indiana V. I. In the early years of the Grand Army of the Republic he served as commander of the post at Dana, Ind., where he lived for a number of years.

He is survived by his wife, Emma, of Mansfield; two daughters, Mrs. Nichols of Danville and Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, of California, and a son, Claire Fisher, California; 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at Dana, Ind., at 3 p. m. Thursday and burial will be there. Mrs. Fisher will be unable to attend the funeral but the family here will be represented by Frank Nichols, a grandson, and Mrs. Lawrence Metzger, a granddaughter, and her husband.

IN A HURRY!

SHELBY—The shortest meeting held this year by city council was held Monday night at the city hall. Directly following the reading of the minutes, the meeting was adjourned on a motion made by Councilman Charles Dye and seconded by Councilman Kenneth Rothlisberger. The two-minute meeting was adjourned so that the candidates for re-election could get out and campaign.

ELECTS BOARD

Memorial Park Names Trustees At Annual Meeting.

Mansfield Memorial Park, Inc., held its annual meeting last night at the Moose hall and elected a new board of trustees. The board will elect officers later.

The new board is comprised of George Mead, Robert E. Hutchison, Nicholas Hergatt, Charles Hoffman and D. O. Meese.

B. W. Forkner, chairman of the lot owners committee, made the committee's report to the owners. On Sept. 23 the owners met and worked out a plan to rescue the park from bankruptcy court. Forkner said that the assets of the Mansfield Development [illegible] tate, selling agency of Memorial park, had been purchased and now belong to the lot owners.

Performance Counts

1. The greatest cause of gasoline waste is Stop-and-Go driving.

2. The gasoline especially refined to reduce this waste is Super-Shell.

3. As long as Stop-and-Go remains a problem, you need Super-Shell.

SUPER-SHELL cuts the cost of STOP-and-GO driving

Remember, just one stop can waste enough gasoline to go a third of a mile.

PAM— More Mystery! By A. W. Brewerton

CLARE RETURNS FROM HER DATE!
NO—SHE'S NOT HERE, CLARE— JENNY'S GONE
WHAT? — YOU DON'T MEAN SHE RAN AWAY?
NO— HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED! —JUST AS YOU LEFT I HEARD HER SCREAM--
PAM GIVES AN ACCOUNT OF OCCURRENCES!
WELL— DOCTOR DAVIS SAID SHE OUGHT T'BE PUT IN A HOSPITAL —SO HE MADE THE ARRANGE-MENTS— I WENT WITH THEM— SHE'S IN HOPE HOSPITAL.'
WHEN I LEFT SHE WAS STILL IN THAT COMA!
POOR KID!
WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE HAPPENED? SOMETHING MUST HAVE FRIGHTENED HER --
DO YOU SUPPOSE ANY ONE COULD HAVE TRIED TO GET IN THE WINDOW, PAM?
I THOUGHT OF THAT— IT'S NOT FAR FROM THE FIRE ESCAPE, YOU KNOW! —NOTHING SEEMED DISTURBED, THOUGH!
WHAT DID FRIGHTEN JENNY?

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Pride and Prejudice By Harold Gray

OH, YOU AND JOHN GO-- I'D ONLY BE IN THE WAY— I THINK ANNIE SHOULD STAY HOME, TOO—NONSENSE— IF THIS PARTNERSHIP IS GOING TO WORK, WE'LL NEED ALL THE BRAINS WE CAN GET—
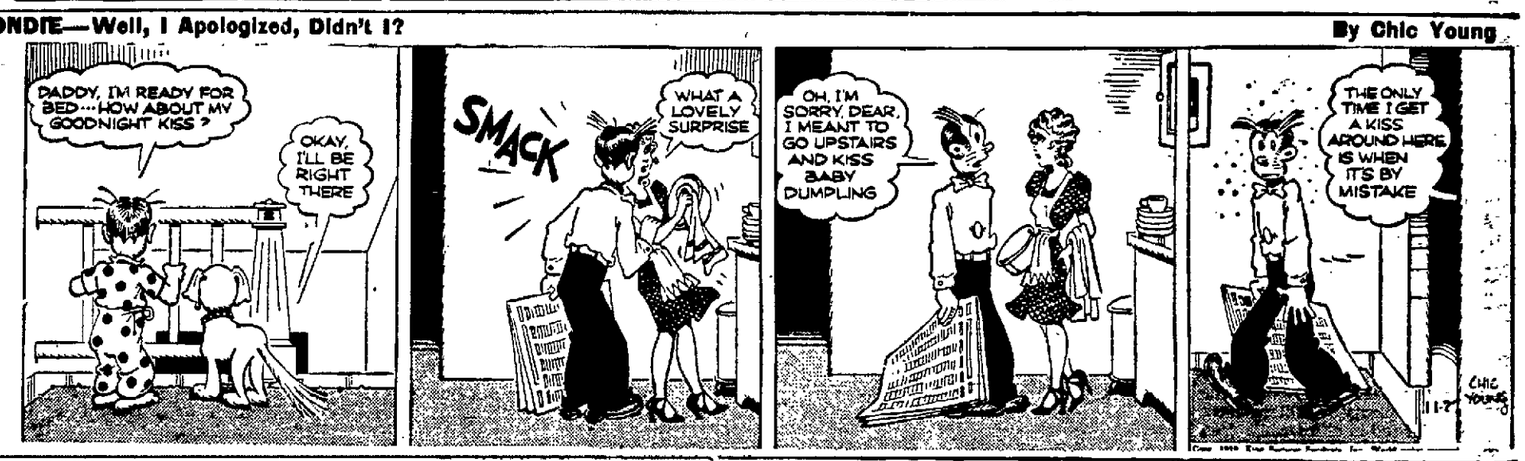
11-7-39
HA! HA! BUT, I'M NOT CLEVER, TALLY—
DON'T BE LIKE THAT, JILL— PLEASE— THIS PARTNERSHIP BETWEEN YOUR HUSBAND AND ME--- HOW CAN I SAY IT?
IT'S JUST A BUSINESS PARTNERSHIP, DO YOU MEAN? OH, NATURALLY—
IT IS— AND YOU AND ANNIE MEAN TEN TIMES AS MUCH TO THE PARTNERSHIP AS I EVER CAN—
THAT'S AS IT SHOULD BE— OH, I REALIZE I'VE MUSCLED IN— BUT WITH YOUR HUSBAND'S HELP I CAN AT LEAST GAIN A SMALL SHARE OF GREAT SUCCESS— AND, OH, HOW I WANT TO SUCCEED—
ALL RIGHT, TALLY— COME ON, ANNIE-- WE'LL GO—
HAROLD GRAY

BLONDIE—Well, I Apologized, Didn't I? By Chic Young



DADDY, I'M READY FOR BED--- HOW ABOUT MY GOODNIGHT KISS?
OKAY, I'LL BE RIGHT THERE
SMACK
WHAT A LOVELY SURPRISE
OH, I'M SORRY, DEAR, I MEANT TO GO UPSTAIRS AND KISS BABY DUMPLING
THE ONLY TIME I GET A KISS AROUND HERE IS WHEN IT'S BY MISTAKE

THE NEBBS— Now I'll Tell You By Sol Hess

THERE'S THAT FELLOW WHO FRIGHTENED ME SO— IT ISN'T THE FELLOW I THOUGHT IT WAS. I'M ALL NERVES AND THEY'RE AS STEADY AS POPCORN OVER A HOT FIRE
I'LL GET DOWN TO BUSINESS WITH THAT BIRD. I DONT KNOW WHY I SHOULD HAVE A GUY LIKE HIM AROUND BOTHER-ING ME!
11-7
SAY, WHAT'S THIS MYSTERY ALL ABOUT? I RUN A HOTEL HERE AND I SHOULD HAVE THE PRIVILEGE TO KNOW WHO I'M HARBORING AND WHAT YOU'RE USING THAT ROOM FOR BESIDES SLEEPING AND RESTING
YOU'RE ABSOLUTELY RIGHT, MR. NEBB
I FEEL THAT I'M A GOOD JUDGE OF CHARACTER AND CAN TRUST YOU— LET'S GO INTO YOUR OFFICE AND I'LL EXPLAIN EVERY-THING TO YOU BUT IT MUST BE CONFI-DENTIAL
YOU CAN PLACE YOUR CONFIDENCE IN ME AS SACREDLY AS THOUGH YOU WERE TALKING IT OVER WITH YOURSELF

It is estimated 70,000,000 Canadian ducks have flown into the United States with the approach of winter. That settles the problem of what we're going to have for that second Thanksgiving Day dinner.

NEW DEALERS HAIL NEW PLAN TO FEED NEEDY

Expect Food Stamp Idea to Be Broadened to Include 35,000,000 in U. S.

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —Administration officials from President Roosevelt down are growing more confident daily that they have found a way to bridge the gap between the abundance on farms and the hunger in cities.

The food order stamp plan, begun as an experiment six months ago in supplying surplus foods to the needy in cities, is producing results that are convincing many officials who had viewed it with skepticism.

Eventually, 35,000,000 Americans may be enabled to increase food and clothing purchases through the system of orange and blue stamps used as instruments for accomplishing the double purpose of reducing farm surpluses and raising the living standards of low-income city groups.

Some officials believe they have found an answer to the riddle that has been particularly acute during the past 10 years—"the paradox of plenty." Millions have gone under-fed in cities while food surpluses rotted in agricultural areas only a few miles away.

A partial answer was found in government work-relief programs. Still another step was the free distribution of food surpluses to relief clients by the Surplus Commodities Corporation, which bought the food from farmers, through state relief agencies.

Waste Charged

Waste and inefficiency were charged against that system. The food stamp plan has resulted in enthusiastic support from food wholesalers, retail grocers and relief officials, whose cooperation was solicited.

With one exception, the food stamp plan has been made available in the experimental cities only to persons receiving public relief. It is being spread on a nation-wide basis to include eventually about 15,000,000 persons on relief.

The plan now has been broadened, experimentally, with the idea of eventually covering the low-income, privately employed group estimated to number more than 20,000,000 persons throughout the country. The plan is being tried in Pottawatomie County, Oklahoma, which includes the city of Shawnee. That has been, to date, the only deviation from the relief policy.

There, any family having an income of $19.50 or less a week from private employment or investments is entitled to participate. People in that bracket may purchase orange colored stamps good in exchange for all foods and receieve free blue stamps equal to half the value of orange stamps purchased.

The stamps are exchanged for food in the same manner as by relief clients. Orange stamps are good for all foods—tobacco and liquors are not included—and the blue stamps for foods designated as surplus by the secretary of agriculture.

Among the relief groups, those receiving relief wages purchase orange stamps and are given blue stamps of half the value of the orange. Those receiving direct relief are given blue food order stamps without being required to purchase orange stamps.

Is It a Camel or Is It a Horse?

This strange half-horse, half-camel has been captured by Bud Anderson, Vale, Ore., cowboy, near that town. Aside from the hump, the animal's other camel characteristics are a narrow neck, short body and thinner hind legs. Though zoologists scoff at the idea that camels and horses can cross breed, stockmen believe this creature may be a descendant of a camel in the herds which were liberated on the western plains some 50 years ago.

RATS GET MEAT, FISH COURSE BUT THEIR LUCK DOESN'T LAST

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(U.P.)—The government has subsidized a "cafeteria system" for rats.

Under the plan, reputed to be highly effective, rats will be allowed a choice of meatballs or fish with their poison.

G. C. Oderkirk district agent of the U. S. Bureau of Biological survey, said farmers will be instructed to place alternate portions of fish and meat bait along baseboards and other places where rats run.

"Then, if the rodents 'smell a rat' in the hamburger," he said, "they may overlook it in the fish. So we get them going and coming."

The campaign against one of mankind's greatest enemies will cover 55,000 farms through the cooperation of county agents in West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin. Farmers purchase the bait at cost and the campaign is financed through a revolving fund.

Continuation of the project pends upon the possibility of purchasing additional supplies of red squill, basis of the poison used in the bait.

Red squill is produced from a kind of lily bulb grown along the shores of the Mediterranean, particularly in North Africa.

Because the poison is emetic, it is harmlessly expelled from the stomachs of human beings or domestic animals. However, rats cannot vomit and the poison produces quick death by paralyzing the heart and nervous system.

Oderkirk said the war caused an increase of 200 per cent in the price of red squill and within the last month it had become hard to obtain at any price.

TURNS CABBY, GETS HIS MAN

ASHEVILLE, N. C. —(U.P.)—Police who like to make arrests with a minimum of commotion might take a lesson from Asheville detectives.

When Charles Brown, negro, arrived from Tennessee on a bus, he was asked: "Want a taxi?"

"Sure," replied Brown, stepping into the car, heaving a heavy suitcase in ahead of him.

"Where to?" asked the driver as his companion settled beside him in the front seat.

The negro gave him an address, lit a cigarette and struck up a conversation.

After a 10-minute ride, the car rolled to a stop—in front of the police station. The negro then realized he had been tricked. The suitcase disclosed that its contents were 12 half-gallon jars filled with liquor.

Ohionan Goes Into Creek to Get Muskie, Caught On Pole.

CONNEAUT, O.—(U.P.)—Robert Schatz, fishing with a bamboo pole, hook and worm, caught a 14-pound muskie—but he had to dive into Conneaut creek to get it.

After the pole broke, young Schatz dived into the stream and retrieved the 31-inch fish, which then shook the hook. But Schatz grabbed the fish and carried it ashore.

ARID DESERTS BECOME FARMS

6,000 Year Old Idea Goes Over Big in U. S.; 3,000,000 Acres Reclaimed.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Queen Semiramis' big idea has settled more than a million Americans on western desert lands.

After 6,000 years, her feat of "constraining" the Nile river and watering lands "that had before been barren and without inhabitants" echoes in the biggest reclamation program of history, with concrete walls damming rushing streams to feed dozens of American cities.

Three million acres have already been brought under cultivation and settled by 903,879 persons in the western United States as the result of federal irrigation programs patterned on the pioneer work of the Assyrian queen.

When present and authorized federal reclamation programs are completed, another 2,500,000 acres will be brought under the plow. Government officials assert the completed program, as outlined by congress, will represent a federal expenditure of $1,256,000,000, a large part of which is repayable.

Private capital has gone largely into smaller developments, which, like the larger federal projects, have brought fertile land under cultivation to provide homes and livelihood for hundreds of thousands of people and according to officials here, have provided a fairly stable economy by eliminating the threat of drought.

The ancient Sabaens, at the height of their civilization in 1700 B. C., diverted water to stabilize their agriculture. The civilization that rose around Bagdad is believed to have been based on irrigation similar to that now being practiced in the west.

W. H. Olin, of the University of Idaho, regards the Nahrwan canal which diverted the Euphrates and Tigris rivers onto the plain of Bagdad was a masterpiece of engineering genius. It was 250 miles long, had an average depth of from 36 to 50 feet and averaged 400 feet in width. The only comparable piece of engineering work of this type in the United States today is the all-American canal diverting waters of Colorado river onto rich California farm lands.

TAUGHT SCHOOL WITH 2 BOOKS

But 19th Century Teacher Had Strong Right Arm; He Made Good.

(By International News Service)

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn. — A strong arm and two books, the Bible and Shakespeare, were the main prerequisites of a school teacher in New England a century ago.

This was indicated in a diary left by Paris Bower, which was found recently. Bower was born in 1803, became a school teacher at 17 and remained one for 57 years.

Bower's first job in Ellington where he won a victory from the pupils the very first day by sending their ringleader home with a bleeding nose when the latter challenged his rule.

The Bible and Shakespeare sufficed to teach the pupils English, but in order to round out the "three R's" and keep a day ahead of the class, Bowers admitted he had to study continually.

In those days it was customary for the town to pay the teacher's board and there was always rivalry among the townspeople to board the teacher. Chief reason for this, according to the diary, was because the children of the host could be given some overtime teaching, particularly if they remained out of school to work on the farm.

Like many a school teacher in his day, Bower married one of his pupils who was two years his senior.

The couple had nine children, which Bower had to teach in addition to his regular scholars.

LEGACY OF LOVE + + + + + +

By KATHRN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER XIX

Rita sent her mount galloping ahead through the clean fresh breeze coming in from the ocean. Roger's horse followed close behind, and the sound of flying hoofs on hard-packed earth, the sheer joy of floating along this grass-bordered path in the middle of the tree-lined boulevard, with motor cars skimming by on both sides of her, sent high courage through Rita.

"After all," she thought, "it's fortunate I have a friend like Selia—and Roger to take me around. I can repay Selia in part by doing many extra duties. But Roger—I hope I don't have to make him feel discouraged too long—hope he finds somebody else."

On the Santa Monica beach they breakfasted on fresh shrimp and white fish, even enjoying the French fried potatoes and zuchini saute, a rarity with them for so early a meal. They sat at a table under a purple beach umbrella outside a crude frame building where the food had been prepared. The tangy salt air had given them ravenous appetites, and made the simple meal seem like a feast.

Now for a brief few minutes Rita could put aside the thought of Tom and all perplexities concerning him. Her black habit and hat set off the pinkness of her animated little face, and the corn-gold rebellious curls clung sweetly to her ears and tightly hugged the curve of her neck, making her very lovely. She had an irresistible little-girl look in her wide blue eyes that Roger Brewster found himself unable to resist.

He hitched himself forward in his chair, leaned toward her over the table.

He said, low, "I swore I wouldn't say anything again until you gave me some encouragement—but I'm breaking over—I'm proposing to you for the hundreth time, darling."

She laughed merrily. She told him swiftly, "Oh, you're not sincere about any of that, Roger. You only think you are. We're too good friends to be continually arguing about marriage. In me you see—the ideal bachelor girl."

"Listen, Rita. We can't go on like this forever. Please be sensible. I can give you everything—you can take your rightful place socially. As it is . . ."

"As it is, I'm getting along nicely, thank you. I've a job—a real one I like. I love Selia—and I like you, Roger."

"Enough to marry me?"

"No—sorry."

"I'd rather you'd hate me—then there'd be some hope. But this indifference. . . . " He sighed forlornly, settled back to butter a roll.

"Perhaps I'm being selfish—perhaps I should take myself off somewhere so you couldn't bring this up so often, Roger," she said musingly.

"See here—you can't do that!" he protested hotly. "You—you wouldn't, would you?"

"Not for a while, at least. Who but Selia would give me a job?"

"A lot of people would—just to have you around to look at," Roger flung back morosely.

Rita quickly turned the conversation into less personal channels, tried to act more cheerful than she felt at the moment. This matter of Roger worried her more than she cared to admit.

On the way back to Beverly Hills, Rita did a great deal of thinking. It wasn't right to allow Roger to go on like this. She would have to look around for another position. But where? There must be other places where a social secretary was needed. An agency might be able to help her.

Abruptly then, her attention was drawn to a blast of motor horns coming from a half dozen cars whizzing toward them on the highway.

"Bride and groom being given the usual hilarious send-off," she thought, half enviously.

Now the noise became deafening, was close upon them

Rita's horse reared, but she managed to keep her balance and get its four feet on the ground again.

Automobiles containing the wedding party went swirling past. Rita's horse shied, lunged, stumbled, and went down with Rita's right foot pinioned tightly beneath it

At the hospital, after X-rays had been taken, and Selia, Roger and even his father, Dain Brewster, had come in to console Rita, she lay in her bed thoroughly exhausted in mind and body. She was devoutly thankful when the surgeons found only a sprained ankle. It was, to be sure, badly sprained, but it would mend if she were perfectly quiet, and she might so easily have been killed.

But in her present weakened condition, she was more amendable to persuasion, and Roger, well aware of this, was anxious to press his advantage.

Back again in the soothingly lovely Beverly Hills home of the Brewsters, surrounded by every attention that the family and servants could think of, Rita began to wonder if, after all, this should not be her permanent place. She was nearly convinced that Roger loved her. Perhaps Roger's love would be enough. At least, she would always be fond of him, and he had given up so many of his irresponsible ways since she had been living with the family that she might be able to trust him.

One morning after the servants had carried her up to the sun deck over the garage and set her comfortably in an invalid's chair, Roger appeared and dropped down on a nearby rattan seat. Rita's nurse, Miss Graves, had gone to the house to get her patient a glass of orange juice, leaving Rita and Roger alone.

"Thank heaven that chromo has vanished for a minute!" exclaimed Roger, in a relieved tone. "Every time I want to talk to you these days, you're surrounded by nurses, doctors or servants."

Rita flung him an appreciative smile, lifted two unsteady hands to her bare golden head, brushed hair from her apprehensive eyes, the loose sleeves of her blue chiffon negligee falling away from her lovely white arms

"I'm sorry, Roger," she said carefully. "I wouldn't have been good company, anyway—so you've nothing to regret. Every one has been so good to me—too good."

But she was thinking desperately, "Now, I must decide—I must! Oh, what shall I do? Or doesn't it matter? Roger means security, protection. Do I need anything else?"

"So you haven't missed paling around with me?" Roger asked Rita teasingly.

"Of course," she told him truthfully.

His little black eyes lighted.

"Mean that? Or is this just one of your good deed days?"

"Don't be silly. You know we always have fun together."

"That's a fact. And I've just had to decline an invitation for us both. Eva's aunt is giving a dinner dance on the 15th—probably Eva's engagement party. I'm glad we don't have to go—Eva will put on a show over capturing Tom Cleveland."

"Yes — she'll — she'll be happy over it," came low from Rita, her world crashing abruptly about her feet.

There was no will power left in her now. Nothing mattered.

Her fingers nervously twisted a fold of the soft chiffon lying across her lap, her eyes fastened blankly on the tips of her blue boudoir slippers resting on the foot of the invalid's chair. She shivered, felt cold all over.

Roger came and sat on the side of her chair, took one of her limp hands in his.

"Darling," he blurted out. "I'm mad about you. Why can't we be married."

"You know how it is, Roger—I don't love you. You still don't want me—under that condition, do you?"

"Yes, yes—on any terms, darling! I'll make you love me! I'll spend all my life teaching you how to love me!"

This fervent declaration touched her deeply. Tears filled her eyes, hung like jeweled curtains on her long dark lashes.

The look she gave him was one of utter dejection, mingled with a kind of submissive tenderness. Her lips trembled, moved.

"Yes, Roger—I'll—I'll marry you," came from her unexpectedly.

"Thank God!" he cried exultantly, and caught her swiftly to him.

She made a little gesture of weariness when he released her. Her mind flashed back to much that she now had to put behind her. She had waited long months for Tom Cleveland to do many things—complete a love declaration, prove himself innocent of a crime, explain why he had taken a place in the Green family as chauffeur. He had completely ignored all this and now, while she hadn't exactly lost complete faith in him, she was on the verge of it. When a man loves you, saying it in words is only the first step—and Tom had evaded the question of marriage with Rita Rhodes. He had gone on to the vampish, transparent Eva.

At any rate, she had congratulated them, and neither had denied it. Strangely, Eva did not visit her in the hospital, and she hadn't come to the Brewster home to offer sympathy. This wasn't like Eva.

Roger stood up now, all eagerness.

"I'm going to town—jewelry shop, you know." He laughed gayly. "Oh, boy—am I lucky!"

Rita looked off across the horizon to the sturdy mountains to gather strength.

"Must you do that—so soon?" she protested weakly.

"Why not? I want the world to know how it is with us."

A ring—an engagement ring! A round band on your finger that tied you to a promise! Although Rita had worn such an emblem before, she had never promised lightly.

Suddenly a cheering thought assailed her. Roger might finally tell her as other men had done—that circumstances would prevent their marriage. There might be an out for her yet. She wondered if she ought to chastise herself for even thinking of such a thing.

Then abruptly she felt decidedly wicked. She would make herself go through with this marriage, not look for loopholes. She had made up her mind. It was final.

Roger leaned down, laid his two hands on her shoulders. He pressed his lips hard against her mouth.

He straightened quickly, with, "Bye, darling, I'll be back soon—with something worth looking at," and strode away.

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5

For two generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers' standby. It is used in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

CAN BE USED FREELY . . . VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply rub it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT . . . VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It acts direct on the skin like a poultice; (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air passages with every breath. This direct poultice-and-vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves irritation—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

SENSATIONAL RESULTS IN CLINICAL TESTS

VapoRub is an important medication in Vicks Plan which was tested in a clinic of 2,650 children. Look at the results! Reports from supervising doctors show sickness from colds cut 54.95%; school absences due to colds 77.99% among the children following the Plan—who were instructed to obey specified health rules, to use Vicks Va-tro-nol (nasal medication) when colds threatened, and to use VapoRub if a cold developed. Look in your VapoRub package for story of these tests and directions for following Vicks Plan in your own home.

BEE STING CURES

Invalid Saved When Wound Localizes Infection.

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — Patrolman Thomas Charlton raises bees in his off hours, and his wife credits the hobby with having cured their son of a serious illness.

"Two years ago our son, Bill, was stricken in the leg with rheumatic fever," Mrs. Charlton said. Two physicians said if the infection spread to his heart, Bill would die.

"One day my husband placed Bill in a chair in the back yard. I heard Bill scream. He had been stung in the stricken leg by a bee. I thought he would die. I placed mud on the wound in an effort to draw the poison from the skin pores."

Shortly afterward, she said, the 12-year-old boy showed a marked improvement.

"We called our doctor and he was astounded," Mrs. Charlton continued. "He said the bee sting had apparently localized the infection, leading to an immediate cure."

Members of the debating team shown above are: left to right, Gerald Miner, John E. Graf, Lawrence Smith, Charles Oswalt, John Liebfritz, George Armbruster and Ernest Cappadonna.

VANISHING SWAN DUCKS OBLIVION

Federal Asylum Effects 25% Increase in Fowl Threatened With Extinction.

DENVER —(U.P.)— Federal asylum provided by the U. S. biological survey has effected a 25 per cent increase in the trumpeter swan, America's largest waterfowl threatened with extinction.

A census of the birds revealed that there are now 199 of them in the country.

"That's at least 51 more than we had a year ago," Leo L. Laythe, regional director of the biological survey said. "The count is conservative but to be more accurate we would be forced to disturb the swans, a practice which might result in casualties."

Laythe's survey revealed that 129 of the birds are being sheltered at the Red Rocks Migratory Waterfowl refuge in southwestern Montana. Another smaller flight is in Yellowstone Park. Young swans numbered 76 while 123 adults were counted.

Four of the swans were taken into the Jackson Hole region in Wyoming two years ago. Three are still there. The other two groups migrate back and forth from Red Rocks to Yellowstone. The biologist said they seldom make long flights, seemingly having lost their migratory instincts years ago.

"They seem content to remain near the refuge," Laythe explained. "We're watching them very closely and giving them every protection possible. If disease strikes, the whole flock may be taken."

The trumpeter swan gets its name from its loud cry. It is not as wary as most waterfowl and because of this it fell easy prey to hunters who received a good price for the bird's down and breast skin.

The swans were believed extinct until a small flock was discovered several years ago in the Red Rocks region.

PRIES OPEN 'TRADE WINDOW' CURTAINED AT VERSAILLES

(By United Press)

Three hundred years ago, Peter the Great opened a passage to ocean-bound traffic for Russia.

The passage was made into a trade window a few years later when Catherine the Great added the Grand Duchy of Courland to Russia.

But the opening was blocked by the Versailles Treaty, with the establishment of Finland, Estonia and Latvia as independent states.

Today, however, Joseph Stalin has re-established for the Soviet what Peter the Great and Russia's Catherine had started.

Even though Russia's commerce flowed through the Baltic states after their independence, the Soviet had only three ports; one of them closed by ice several months of the year and the other regulated and at the mercy of the Dardanelles. These ports were Leningrad (St. Petersburg) on the Neva River, an ice-bound harbor like Montreal part of the year; Odessa on the Black Sea, and at the mercy of the Dardanellas, and Vladivostock, thousands of miles from the western fields and mines of Russia.

Estonia and Livonia, the northern part of Latvia, once Swedish territories, were ceded to Russia after Charles XII was defeated by Peter the Great at the Battle of Poltava at the beginning of the 17th century. The two states, Livonia and Courland, today form the northern half of Latvia. Courland, more southerly, was added by Catherine.

While the Baltic states were Russian provinces, they formed an integral part of Russia's wide-gauge transit system, but when they became independent states, they brought their railroads into conformity with the narrow-gauge systems of the rest of Europe, thus leaving the Soviet, along with Spain, with the only wide-gauge tracks on the European continent.

Thus Russia was compelled to transhipp the bulk of its commerce, grain, lumber, minerals, etc., at the borders of the Baltic states instead of reaching ports directly.

The re-coordination of the Baltic railroad system, including the other former part of the old Russian Empire — Lithuanian — has loomed as a major factor in Moscow negotiations. It assures coordination with Russia, but isolates them for rail transport with the rest of Europe.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1939.

Persons who doubt the efficacy of prayer may have confined themselves too closely to the "gimme" variety.

Now that the campaign is over, some of the more violent partisans are probably ready to admit that candidates on the opposition ticket are pretty good fellows, after all.

For the benefit of younger readers it may be said that "Gone With the Wind," which is eventually to be shown as a motion picture, is based on a book by the same name.

Above Average Sales Tax Receipts

RICHLAND county's gain of 44 per cent in sales tax collections, over the corresponding week of last year, as compared to a 38 per cent increase in the state, gives further evidence of an upward trend in retail buying in Mansfield and vicinity.

For the ten months ending with October the state increase in sales tax revenues was 16 per cent over the same period in 1938, while Richland county's increase was approximately 23 per cent.

As the gains due to the 3 per cent refund feature, with organized stamp-saving, may be assumed to be practically uniform throughout the state, Richland county's above-the-average showing is taken to indicate that retail trade here is considerably above the state average.

Greater industrial employment, with resultant increase in jobs along other lines, probably goes far in explaining this local advantage, which is naturally gratifying to those who are especially interested in maintaining Mansfield's record of steady progress.

Limits of Freedom to Print

A COLUMNIST, abused by some of his readers for not printing ineligible letters they send him, is driven to explain as follows:

"Freedom of speech is relative. It does not mean freedom to vilify a race, to foment prejudice, unreason, cruelty and dissension. These things destroy freedom of speech, together with other democratic liberties."

Also, editors and columnists usually have only a certain amount of space, and are swamped with copy good and bad, legitimate and illegitimate. They cannot print anywhere near all the good stuff they receive, let alone the bad stuff.

The harassed columnist goes on to complain of another phase of the general effort to break into print. "In general," he says, "I seem to notice that people who are most insistent on their democratic rights are likely to be the most questionable in their allegiance to the spirit of democracy. Men who are openly opposed to the democratic system are the first to appeal to their constitutional rights when their civil liberties are threatened, and it is they who squawk loudest about freedom of speech, even though it does not exist in the systems of government which they prefer."

Statistical Government

AMERICA seems to have mastered at last the art of finding out what people think about things. This applies to public affairs and private affairs, to statistical things and states of mind.

The process of sampling opinion by cross-sections was first worked out scientifically for puposes of political analysis and election forecast. But Dr. Gallup and his experts developed that procedure into an art apparently so precise that people accept their verdicts of popular opinion on all sorts of public matters. By natural development the method is applied to business purposes, to find out what kind of goods and services people want, and so on.

There are educational values in it, of many kinds. Scientists can learn things they want to know about people. And people, by studying the results, can find out interesting things about each other and themselves.

In short, this nation, with its new technique for sampling opinion and preference, is growing very introspective and also speeding up political procedure. We thus seem to be developing a new form of government—rule through public poll. And it may be democracy in the purest form yet attained.

Old War Damage Claims

LIKE a ghost out of the past came the decision by the international claims commission, awarding to Americans $50,000,000 damages against the German government for alleged sabotage of munitions in New Jersey in 1916 and 1917. It has taken more than twenty years to adjudicate those claims, and they are not yet really settled.

The German member of the commission refused to concur in the verdict, and the present German government may be expected to do likewise. Our government has enough German funds, held from the war days, to pay about half of this award, and may divide them among private claimants who originated the suit. But in spite of the equities of the case, the government may hesitate to do this just now. It would arouse further ill feeling in Germany, and the international situation is already rather difficult.

Movies as an Art

THAT the motion picture has been accepted as an art form worthy of study is shown by the attention now being paid to it by museums of art. A current museum exhibit on the subject is called "The Making of a Contemporary Film" and spreads out before observers the story of the technicolor production of "Tom Sawyer."

There are several hundred different items in the exhibit, beginning with first and later editions of Mark Twain's book. The original script is there. So, too, are pages from the original scenario and later revisions.

Other details shown or explained in some way are the "talent hunt," which involved interviewing 25,000 children, and screen tests for many of them, and the extensive research into local history, architecture, trades, costumes, social customs, speech, and so on, of the period of which Mark Twain wrote. Other general headings in the exhibit are "Production Charts," "Censorship," "Make-Up," "Costumes and Props," "Stills" and "Sneak Preview."

Such an exhibition gives the movie-goer respect for the work that goes into the production of a feature film.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Once again a New York police commissioner has set out after the unattainable end of unsnarling Manhattan's traffic annoyances. He is whistling up his sleeve. He may as well as sit on a rooftop and bay at the moon. Traffic congestion in New York is like some dread diseases—incurable.

But every two or three years some one suddenly decides to revolutionize traffic, streamline it, grease a few skids, eliminate others, and find a way out of the stalled, jumbled, piled-up mess that are our cross-streets. And, as usual, the taxicabs are the first ones singled out.

There are about fourteen thousand cabs in New York. Four thousand of these are the independents. The others belong to the great, organized fleets, belonging to corporations They have fought each other for years—usually to a standstill.

EVEN on good days cab drivers do not make a lot of money. Most of them barely get by. It may be a little tougher than usual on the drivers now, for cruising during daylight hours in the midtown areas has been prohibited—for a month at least. This means that cabs bringing passengers into this area must refuse to pick up other fares after depositing their passengers, but must move at once out of the area and wait at stands for new fares.

But that, here or anywhere else, can't possibly work. If you are standing on a corner and my cab lets me out at your very feet, what is to keep you from piling into the cab and saying, "Driver take me to such and such a place." It's still a free country. There aren't enough cops to keep each cab under surveillance, and beside, why make the cabby lose chance fares when the plan, after all, hasn't the ghost of a chance to succeed.

The truth is that Manhattan will always be something like midnight in a madhouse, where traffic is concerned. There are too many vehicles of every description. The only possible solution would be to cut down the number of cars. And you might as well try to talk reason to penguins. Manhattan, after all, despite its name, is a little place. There are probably a hundred thousand towns in the country that cover more ground. We are like the human skeleton at the circus—tall, but not very large around the middle. We get taller all the time—but never fatter. . . . And the breadth—the street surface—is the only solution to traffic problems.

TRAFFIC problems and cab wars are nothing new in New York. There has never been a time when some disturbance wasn't in the news. This has ranged from the Mahatma Gandhi idea of passive no-cooperation to skull-busting in the best gas-house manner. I have seen cars overturned and their drivers being led away, streaming with blood. I have ridden in cabs and had the driver say—"There is no charge—just tip me what you think the ride was worth." This was one result of the price war. The violence comes through strikes, and the battles between the company cabs and the independents.

These are conditions that should be accepted philosophically. They have always existed. They always will. Police Commissioner Valentine is an able, conscientious man. He knows a thing or two. But what he needs—and can't have—in New York is an additional thousand miles of thoroughfare. Without this, the problem can not be solved.

THE CAT ARRIVES HOME

Politics Soon To Be On Rampage

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WITH adjournment of congress politics shortly will be rampant again. It's been pretty well muzzled during the neutrality debate on Capitol Hill. True, there's been a conflict on the embargo and related issues, but it hasn't been on party lines. Republicans have bolted G. O. P. ranks to vote for embargo repeal, as desired by the Democratic administration. Not all of them, but a fair proportion. Contrariwise, some Democrats have been as vehement anti-repealers, against White House wishes, as any anti-repeal Republican.

The anti-administration Democrats might have been expected to be solidly against repeal, simply because the administration was asking for it, but they've been split also. For instance, Senators Clark of Missouri and Glass of Virginia have been rated as anti-New Dealers, despite their Democratic labels. They disagreed as to the arms embargo, however. Clark opposed repeal as vigorously as Republican Senator Nye of North Dakota, who invented the embargo. Glass has been an equally vigorous repealist.

President Roosevelt knew he couldn't prevent a neutrality fight, but urged the scrappers to waive partisanship, on the well-known ground that politics ought to "end at the water's adge." The lawmakers complied. They pulled one anothers' hair energetically, to the extent of indulging in some very unparliamentary language. There was talk to the effect that the discussion was kept on a "high plane," but considerable of it hasn't sounded so to the press gallery. Nevertheless, it's a fact that the rumpus hasn't been politically partisan.

There probably never has been a case in which senators and representatives have voted their individual honest convictions as generally as in this one.

A Truce Only.

But this inter-party truce has been a truce only.

Plenty of ugly domestic differences of opinion still are hanging fire. They are well within our waters' edges.

The New Dealers are as determined as ever to go ahead with their program.

The Democratic anti-New Dealers, most of the Republicans and a scattering of independents (not all) are as determined as ever to block it.

They'll go to the partisan mat in January.

Unless, possibly—

If the war gets worse than it is at present.

If it does get worse, who can tell?

If it does, there may be some more water's edging, with the New Deal forgotten.

But the chances are that it won't get much worse during the winter. The weather will be adverse to very fierce military operations for the next few months.

Politics will have time to boil and bubble throughout the rest of November, on through December, January and February, and well into March. By then partisanship will be so red-hot, war or no war, that it'll be too late to cool off ahead of the national conventions.

Or supposing that the war, happily, does frazzle out in the meantime, that ends it; we'll have politics anyway.

The 1940 Republican convention promises to be comparatively peaceful. Of course there'll be rival candidates, but they're not vicious rivalries.

The Democratic affair, though! Oo, oi! The two Democratic groups hate each other worse than Democrats hate Republicans or vice versa. John N. Garner now looms as the conservatives' outstanding "white hope." If he's out-nominated, it wouldn't be surprising to see a third party ticket. Even if not, a lot of conservative Democrats are sure to prefer a Republican to another New Deal administration. Or if Garner (or some other old-timer) wins, there's certain to be a shoal of New Dealers who won't support him.

Naturally the Republicans will do their darndest to capitalize on this anticipated Democratic division.

Doesn't this forecast a mean partisan campaign following the conventions?

At that stage of the game the water's edge consideration may only complicate matters.

Timely Editorial

Call for Fair Play.

Mr Roosevelt will serve the welfare of this country, in the opinion of the Sun, if he seeks the earliest opportunity to state to the people that he will respect the third-term tradition. The sooner this question is settled in that manner, the sooner will the affairs of the Democratic party be subjected to the normal processes of democracy the processes of discussion, choice and adjustment. And the sooner it is known to all that the affairs of the Democratic party are to be subjected to normal democratic purposes, the sooner will unnecessary suspicions, stresses and strains be lifted in a period in which the minds and the emotions of most men must be heavily taxed at best.

Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt is under special obligation to deal frankly with all, at the earliest opportunity, in respect to a third term. He has been treated generously by most of those who oppose a third term. They have refused to allow that question to cloud their judgment or to impede their action in support of his neutrality program. Fair play ought to beget fair play.—Baltimore Sun.

Health and Diet

Appendicitis Toll Is Still High.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

If you were to ask a selected group of more than good education—say a meeting of engineers, or a faculty of school teachers, or a sewing circle of physicians' wives—what were the symptoms of appendicitis, the odds are that the concensus of opinion would be "Sudden pain low down on the right side of the abdomen."

Every doctor has heard the explanation of why a case of appendicitis has been allowed to drift so long. "Right away I thought of appendicitis, but the pain wasn't on my right side, so I knew it couldn't be that," or "I made sure I didn't have any pain on my right side before I gave myself the cathartic."

I take, with complete accord, the statement of Dr. Joseph Nash, of New York.

"In Middle of Abdomen."

"It should be printed in every newspaper in the United States that the pain in acute appendicitis is in the middle of the abdomen."

The point that Dr. Nash was making is that in spite of the attempts made to educate the public on acute appendicitis, surgeons constantly are called to see an advanced condition of shock and sepsis from a ruptured appendix.

Education of the public has not diminished the death rate of appendicitis at all.

Most everyone still takes a cathartic whenever there is abdominal pain, and people still dread to have the word appendicitis pronounced over them, and keep putting off calling the doctor until the inevitable processes of Nature have progressed so far that it is imperative.

I have warned over and over again in this column about the danger of appendicitis. I have never made the statement that Dr. Nash ascribes to some medical journalists, that the symptoms of appendicitis manifest themselves by pain on the right side. On the contrary, I have always said that in the presence of any pain between the ribs and the legs there is a possibility of appendicitis and, anyway, never take a cathartic for any pain, no matter where it is.

Education of the public about appendicitis applies to the most important two factors responsible for the death rate of that disease; one is the use of cathartics, self-administered, for acute abdominal pain, and the other is delay in diagnosis due to the patient's certainty that his abdominal pain is trivial.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The confidential dispatches from Europe are buzzing with conflicting reports regarding the British and the Russians. The reports happen to be absolutely true, nevertheless they don't make sense.

For instance, it is a secret but actual fact that a British ship left Odessa, Russian port on the Black Sea, not long ago loaded with $10,000,000 worth of the latest Russian military equipment for the Chinese armies. This equipment was not cast-off stuff which the Russians did not need, but up-to-date weapons of war.

The Japanese knew about it, and tried through diplomatic channels to stop it. But the ship arrived in Rangoon, port of British Burma, just the other day and its cargo is now in Chinese hands.

The ship, it should be noted was British, and it took Russian arms to a British port. In other words, the British and Russian governments, officially none too friendly, are working together behind the scenes when it comes to combating the Japanese in China.

Another diplomatic cross-current is the British suggestion, so far unofficial, to send Anthony Eden, ex-Foreign Minister, to Russia as ambassador. Under the same plan, the French would send to Moscow ex-Premier Edouard Herriot, one of the most important figures in France.

Allied Liberals.

BEHIND this proposal is a group of liberals in both Britain and France who believe in trying to win Russia away from Hitler. It is the same group which urged a Russian alliance before Hitler beat them to it.

Vigorously opposed to them are conservative members in both the French and British cabinets who are worried over Russia's designs on India and fear that the fall of Hitler would lead to bolshevism or at least "democracy" in Germany. In other words, they fear the menace of revolution as much as the menace of Hitler.

Note—This gives one clue as to why ex-President Benes has been given little Allied support in organizing a revolutionary movement among the Czechs. Benes is classed as a liberal and a Russian sympathizer.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Hat.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S riding habit is making trouble among the horsey folk of Virginia. They are alarmed over the vogue of hatless horseback riding, and they blame the First Lady.

The fox-hunting purists cherish th old convention that a lady should wear a hat while riding. To violate this convention is as bad as going hatless to church. Furthermore, it is a matter of safety, for the riding hat, sometimes lined with steel, saves many a cranium on the yon side of a jump.

But the young things in Virginia hunting society saw pictures of Mrs. Roosevelt riding hatless in Rock Creek Park, and they began to follow her style. Matters got so bad that representations of protest were conveyed to the First Lady.

Vivacious Miss Charlotte Noland, head of fashionable Foxcroft School, took occasion, when invited to the White House for lunch, to beg her hostess to reform and put on some sort of headgear.

Capital Chaff.

JIM FARLEY was on the telephone night and day helping line up the neutrality vote in the House. He was with Roosevelt 100 per cent, and for the first time since before the purge. . . . One congressman who faced a tough vote on neutrality was dynamic Tommy D'Alesandro of Baltimore, who comes from a big Italian district. When Jim Farley telephoned him, D'Alesandro replied: "I've got down on my knees to work for that man Roosevelt, but when it comes to jobs I don't get any more out of him than Mussolini or Hitler." However, D'Alesandro voted with Roosevelt. . . . Census jobs passed out at the right time had something to do with certain neutrality votes.

Russian Reception.

MOST intense social spotlight ever focused upon any Washington party since the famous dinner given by Chile's Ambassador Carlos Davila to Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, will concentrate upon the Soviet Embassy reception tonight.

The reception commemorates the 23rd anniversary of the Communist revolution, and in the past it has been one of the gala events of the social season. Washington dowagers, congressmen, cabinet members, and other officials gathered there not because they believed in Soviet doctrines, but because the Russian embassy is famous for its caviar, champagne and excellent music.

Ambassador Troyanovsky frequently imported top-notch singers from the Metropolitan Opera at several thousand dollars each to entertain his guests. As a result, invitations to the Soviet embassy were in almost as great demand as the coveted cardboards to the British embassy.

This year, however, a big question-mark hangs over the Soviet reception. Gold embossed invitations already have been issued to Washington officialdom. In fact, they were issued almost simultaneously with the hot blast fired at Roosevelt by Premier Molotov.

And whether or not many of these invitations will be accepted is going to be watched by all Washington. Already it is known that John L. Lewis has declined; also Chief Justice Hughes, Alice Longworth, all of the Cabinet, and many of the senators and congressmen.

Stalin is going to save money on his Washington anniversary party.

Neutrality Speeches.

UNLIKE the senate, where four weeks of debate didn't change a neutrality vote, the administration's majority in the house was definitely influenced by two speeches.

One was the short, brilliant defense of the measure by Representative James Wadsworth, forthright New York Republican. The speech was not only the best made in the house, but topped anything in the senate.

The other speech was made by Soviet Premier Molotov, blasting the neutrality bill and the president. Next to Wadsworth's effort, this was the best argument for the measure and was responsible for clinching a number of waverers.

November 7, 1918, is to be remembered as the day when a false report made the people of the United States hysterical with joy. On that day an erroneous report of an armistice in the World war caused a wild delirium of joy and brought about the almost total suspension of business.

Individualistic Cows

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

GREAT GRANDMOTHER is in her eighties. All day she sits and knits, by the window among the house plants. Her face is netted with wrinkles, but her humor-loving blue eyes are often not old at all.

"What are you making now?" I asked her.

"Sweaters for the Red Cross. I'm on my fourth war."

"What do you mean by that?"

"History repeats itself," she said. "Even the styles this year are just about like they were when I was little. I was a pigtailed ten-year-old in Civil war time. The older girls made kits for soldiers knapsacks. I had learned to sew, and I made one, too. It was of water-proofed material, envelope style, and held needles and thread, buttons, patches and lint. The lint we made by scraping cotton cloth with a spoon and catching the downy fragments. Lint was supposed to be the best means of staunching blood—it took a long time to make it.

"I remember how my grandmother sat by the fire and cried and knitted socks. I remember how the big girls looked in their wasp waist and bustled dresses, with their hair in snoods. I remember the old daguerrotypes—pretty things they were—little cases with silver clasps that held the picture of the soldier's sweetheart, and of the soldier himself in uniform. They would fit into a breastpocket and maybe even stop a bullet. The girls would put their names into the kits they had sewed. I put my name in mine, and after a while, I had a letter from a soldier thanking me and praising the workmanship. I kept that letter a long time.

"My own son was in the Spanish war . . . but came out all right. That one didn't last so long, but for some of us, it was a greater strain than any other." Her voice quavered a little, and she paused to pick up a stitch.

"Twenty-five years ago I knitted piles and piles of things for the overseas boys. I held the record for our local unit. I never wanted to live to see another war . . . It's such an awful mistake, war is. Now here I am, still knitting—and I know how my grandmother felt, even to her tears. I hope and pray my little great granddaughter may live to be as old as I and never see or know another war."

Plenty of Animals In 'Circus.'

Although a large variety of animals are included in the Ohio's current picture, "Marx Bros. at the Circus," the trained seal which "kibitzes" on Harpo's checker game, is decidedly the most amusing. The checker game, however, is just one of a series of laugh-getting scenes in the newest of the Marx hilarities, which continues through Thursday afternoon. Thursday night's offering at the Ohio will be the premiere showing of "Elizabeth and Essex," with Bette Davis and Errol Flynn.

Majestic's Offering.

Four favorites with theater-goers are starred in the Majestic's current offering, "Trade Winds" wherein Fredric March, Joan Bennett, Ralph Bellamy and Ann Sothern pursue one another across several continents before a murderer is apprehended and a mystery cleared up to everyone's satisfaction. Sharing the bill with "Trade Winds" is "Knight Without Armor" featuring Marlene Dietrich and Robert Donat.

SHELBY CLOSES HOT CAMPAIGN

Mayor Race Holds Interest as City Votes; 3,000 Due to Visit Polls Today.

SHELBY—Candidates for municipal offices in this city today had completed one of the hottest campaigns ever conducted in Shelby. A record vote of some 3,000 is expected today, political leaders predicted.

Under the city charter form of government, all candidates for office must run on a non-partisan ticket.

Greatest interest has been shown in the race for mayor. Mayor D. Bruce Young, minister of First Lutheran church, is opposed by Attorney William R. Morris. Mayor Young is completing his third term in the office. Morris, who first appeared in politics here two years ago when he was defeated for the office of director of law, is opposing Young on an "economy" platform.

Another hot contest is that between Chester Monn and Gail Haun for director of finance. With Finance Director Bert Fix out of the race this year, interest has been high as to who will succeed him.

A third interesting contest is that for director of law. Attorney Theodore Lutz, seeking his second term in the office, opposes Attorney Frank C. Long.

One bond issue is on the ballot. It is for the city's share of the proposed PWA project to construct a subway under the New York Central railroad at the West Smiley avenue crossing. The issue is for $43,000.

Candidates for the council include: First ward, Kenneth Rothlisberger and Felix Ludin; Second ward, Ross Sipes and Chester Bell; Third ward, John Chew and Noel Smith; Fourth ward, Charles Swanger and David Kinsell.

Running for Sharon township offices are: Township trustee, John P. Finnegan; clerk, Bert Fix, Gail Haun and Chester Monn; justice of the peace, G. W. Armstrong, M. E. Berkley and Otto Metz; constable, Edwin B. Lyberger and Harlan L. McCormick.

INFANT GIRL DIES

Helen Kurtzman, of Shelby, Stricken Here After Week's Illness.

SHELBY—Helen Marie Kurtzman, four-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kurtzman, died at Mansfield General hospital yesterday afternoon after a week's illness.

Surviving are her parents; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtzman, of near here and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Wheeler of Willard, and two great-grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Kurtzman, Crestline, and Mrs. Anna M. Kautz, Willard.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday at the Most Pure Heart of Mary church with Rev. Michael McFadden officiating. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery at Shelby Settlement.

MEET FRIDAY

BUCYRUS—Livestock and marketing subjects will be discussed at a dinner meeting of the Cleveland Producers Co-operative Commission association for area livestock committeemen and truckers at the Elberson hotel Friday night.

Committeemen and truckers from Bucyrus, Tiro and New Washington units will attend.

MEETS SCOUT LEADERS

SHELBY—Miss Eleanor Bond of Mansfield, field executive of the Girl Scouts, met with leaders of the Shelby Girl Scouts Monday night in this city. Mrs. Charles Dye, program chairman, and Mrs. Howard Skiles, organization chairman, led the discussion on winter plans.

MARRIAGE OF LOUDONVILLE GIRL REVEALED BY PARENTS AT PARTY

LOUDONVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Schnittke have announced the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Mae, to Bernard R. Weiss of Mt. Vernon.

The ceremony was performed Aug. 19 in Covington, Ky., by Rev. John L. Tilton in the Union Methodist parsonage. Attending the couple were Tom Stewart and Jack Parnell of Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. Weiss was graduated from Loudonville high school in 1938 and her husband was graduated in 1935 from Mt. Vernon high school. He is employed at the Timkin Roller Bearing company in Mt. Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Weiss are at home in the Mohican apartments, Mt. Vernon.

The bride's parents entertained 25 relatives and friends at their home in honor of the couple when the announcement was made.

Miss Blanche Rumburger, daughter of Charles Rumburger of Loudonville, and Earl F. Moldiney, son of Mrs. C. Tittle, of Toledo, were married Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kick on Wooster road in the presence of 50 relatives and friends.

Rev. J. H. Kuhlman, pastor of Zion Lutheran church performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Edward Heyde played nuptial music. The bride wore a blue dress with wine accessories. She is a graduate of the Loudonville school in the class of 1938.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Toledo where he is employed.

Mrs. Mildred Solomon was hostess Friday evening to the members of the Gamma Alpha Tau sorority, at her home on North Water street.

Three tables of bridge were in progress with prizes won by Mrs. Stanton Carey and Miss Pauline Clutter. Out-of-town members present were Miss Martin Merschdorf of Mansfield and Miss Maxine De Pappa of Wooster. Refreshments were served at the card tables. At the business meeting plans were discussed for the annual Christmas dinner and dance.

The Garden club met Friday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. C. E. Losh, who also presided for the business session.

The money that members had earned during the past summer was turned into the treasury. Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson read a paper on "What To Do in November." Mrs. G. V. Beardsley, read a paper on "American Holly." Mrs. Chleo Fisher, read a paper on "How to Care For Cut Flowers."

MORROW GIVEN STATE WARNING ON HEALTH FUND

Commissioner Told County Will Have to Contribute More for State Aid.

MT. GILEAD — Dr. R. L. Pierce, health commissioner of the Morrow county district, had been warned by Dr. R. H. Markwith, state director of health today that Morrow county will have to pay a larger share of the county health budget.

Dr. Markwith pointed out that of the county budget of $8,598.34, only $2,868.34 was being provided through local funds. As many counties are clamoring for health units and are willing to match federal funds dollar for dollar, Dr. Markwith warned that Morrow county must provide additional money or lose out to other counties. The state now provides much of the matching money for Morrow county.

Pointing out that he was appreciative of the financial problem of Morrow County and the health program as carried out here, Dr. Markwith nevertheless asserted that the county budget commission would have to provide more funds for the budget.

BURIED IN TOLEDO.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held in Toledo Monday for Mrs. Harvey Grandstaff, 65, native of Bucyrus, who died of a heart ailment at her home in Toledo Saturday.

Mrs. Grandstaff is survived by her husband Harvey M. Grandstaff; a daughter, Mrs. William S. Langley, and a grandson; a sister, Mrs. Etta Herdman of Marion and a brother, Bronson Gleason of Bucyrus.

HEARS 3 CASES

Bucyrus Mayor Fines 2 and Continues Third Case.

BUCYRUS — Two assault charges and one case of leaving the scene of an accident were on the court docket of Mayor George Dustman Monday.

Martin Smella was fined $10 and costs on a charge of assault and battery filed by his divorced wife Margaret Smella.

A similar charge filed against Jim Ulmer by his wife was heard by the mayor and continued pending future behavior of Ulmer. Ulmer served a sentence on the same charge several weeks ago.

R. G. Traxler, Bucyrus, was fined $25 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Charges against Traxler were filed by Clifton Rorick, East Rensselaer street, who claimed he was injured when Traxler's car struck him at Poplar and Rensselaer street, Oct. 30.

Night Worker For 19 Years, Ashland 'Hello Girl' Rests

ASHLAND—After 19 years as night supervisor of the local telephone exchange, Mrs. Amy Sturges of West Fourth street, is going to have the privilege of learning to sleep at night again—just like other people.

Mrs. Sturges has been on the job as night supervisor all this time, working from 10 o'clock in the evening until 7 o'clock the next morning.

But now that is all over, for Mrs. Sturges has retired, but she declares that she will never forget some of the pleasant memories connected with her position.

To many men whom she would never recognize by face, but who for years have made night routine calls, Mrs. Sturges has become "mother," and she has been called that on the calls.

She can class hundreds of voices simply by hearing them and could tell a very interesting story of the evolution in telephone service since she first started way back in 1920.

NEUTRALS HIT ON BLOCKADE

Belgium and Holland Worried as Berlin Charges British Given Leniency.

munique sometime later. The communique may not be issued until after an emergency meeting of the Belgian cabinet.

There were increasing indications that Belgium, Holland and other small neutrals were increasingly alarmed lest they be involved in the war.

It might be, of course, that Leopold and Wilhelmina merely wanted to survey their general foreign policies in the light of general developments, as some Dutch quarters suggested. Or they might possibly be considering some peace proposals.

But those suggestions did not seem to offer an adequate explanation of Leopold's urgent and unannounced trip to The Hague. Political quarters in Belgian referred vaguely to "grave developments." All the evidence seemed to indicate that some definite and alarming news must have been received.

Speculation centered at once on the possibility that Germany might have decided to try to break the deadlock on the western front by sweeping through Holland, Belgium or both.

There was no news from Berlin that any such move was being considered. Germany repeatedly has promised to respect the neutrality and the frontiers of Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and the Scandinavian states.

While Belgium and Holland held most attention, other neutrals also had their worries.

Norway once more defied German contentions in the case of the American freighter City of Flint. The German prize crew, taken off the ship at Haugesund, Norway, was ordered taken to a 300-year-old castle near the Swedish border for internment, presumably for the duration of the war. The ship, in charge of her American crew, remained at Bergen pending a final decision on whether she will leave her cargo there rather than attempt to deliver it to England.

Finland's negotiations with Soviet Russia still hung fire. The Finnish cabinet met to draft fresh instructions for its delegates in Moscow. The negotiations were not expected to be resumed until after the three-day Soviet celebration of the anniversary of red revolution which ends tomorrow.

In that celebration today, 50,000 picked Soviet troops and 1,000,000 civilians paraded through Red square. War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov thundered to the crowds that "we shall take no part in war," but that Russia must be increasingly prepared to protect its interests.

As for military developments, the French were elated by a great victory in the first major aerial engagement of the war. They claimed nine American-made pursuit planes shot down nine of 27 German planes that crossed the lines yesterday. The French said they suffered no losses. Berlin claimed to have brough down two French and one British plane.

On the ground, the French still held the Forback salient which dominates Germany's Saar valley industries.

1,300 AT FOOD SCHOOL OPENING

Largest Crowd Ever to Attend First Session Welcomes Miss Chambers Again.

An all-white kitchen unit of electric range, refrigerator, sink and steel cabinets, was set up on the stage.

As Miss Chambers began her lecture and cooking, waves of savory ordors floated out into the theater—browned onions, roasting meat, biscuits and cake browning in the oven.

In the parade of foods at the end of the lecture there were a number of meat dishes, vegetables, apple pie, cake with chocolate icing, French fried potatoes, spaghetti and other attractive dishes.

Tomorrow's program will be "New Quirks In The Home" and the list of dishes to be prepared will appeal to the housewife who wants something "new and different." There will be banana tea bread, German potato pancakes, bacon bran bread, sausage and hominy omlet, oven stew, buffet ham, the German sauerbraten (sour meat), pecan rolls and a number of other recipes.

The school opens at 9 a. m. and closes at 11:30. Immediately after the start tomorrow there will be a quiz contest, open to any woman in the audience.

HUNT RAIDER

Allies Report Deutschland Is Sighted Near Azores.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Neutral naval circles reported today that allied naval units had sighted the German pocket battleship Deutschland in the neighborhood of the Azores Islands.

The allied naval command has worked out a definite plan to hunt down the Deutschland because its presence in the Atlantic endangers shipments of allied war materials from the United States, a reliable source reported.

It was said that the Deutschland's presence off Newfoundland 10 days ago had been confirmed, and that an attempt was being made to keep a close check on its movements.

CRUISER STUCK AGAIN AT ERIE

Breaks Another Oil Line Just as It Gets Ready to Start.

ERIE, Pa. —(AP)— The snow cruiser designed for the Byrd antarctic expedition attempted to get an early and unannounced start from Erie today to avoid the crowds but plans again went awry.

Motors of the huge vehicle were turned over at 5:30 a. m. and an escort of state police was rushed to the yards of the General Electric company plant, where the cruiser has been taking on new motors.

The vehicle moved slowly towards the gates of the yards and then stalled. Investigation revealed another broken oil line.

DEATH DEMANDED

Youth, 17, Accused In Murder of Widow, 62, In Indiana.

WARSAW, Ind.—(U.P.)—Frank E. Potts, 17, Catawba, S. C., was under indictment on a charge of first degree murder today for the slaying of Mrs. Florence Potter, 62, Warsaw widow who was found strangled and beaten in her home Oct. 13.

Prosecutor Jacob Koontz said he would demand the death penalty. Potts confessed the slaying Sunday, police said, after he was arrested for vagrancy at Atchison, Kan.

American citizens in their crews.

Should the ships ever be returned to the United States registry after the proposed transfer, the commission said, they could not enter coastwise or intercoastal service. The nine vessels are the American Shipper, American Banker, American Trader, American Traveler, American Farmer, American Importer, American Merchant, the President Harding and the President Roosevelt.

The United States lines' two largest ships—the Manhattan and the Washington — will remain under the American flag, probably in Latin-American service.

Sees No 'Dodge' Attempt.

Commissioner Max Truitt, discussing the application, expressed the belief that it was a sound situation without "any element of dodge" from the neutrality act.

"There is nothing in the neutrality law, or in the debates that I remember," said Truitt, "which indicated an American citizen could not charter a boat of a foreign government."

The commission was told by the state department, it was learned, that no question of foreign policy was involved in the transfer.

On the other hand, Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union, declared in New York that the transfer would mean "the company can ignore the collective bargaining contract with us."

"If they put alien seamen on these ships to evade the neutrality law and our union contracts," he said, "we will march 10,000 seamen down to Washington and picket the place 'till they drop'."

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL

Frank Livingston, 47, Taken By Death In Columbus.

Frank Livingston, 47, of 287 Marion avenue, died Monday in Columbus following a heart attack. Mr. Livingston had been in ill health in recent weeks and was in Columbus for medical treatments.

false, and asks for a hearing.

The director had charged him with "drunkenness, political activity and falsification of expense accounts."

The indictment of the two Brunswick officials grew out of Judge Culbertson's request for a grand jury investigation of "widespread perjury." After its investigation the county grand jury indicted Lutz and Petchler on criminal libel charges in connection with the Greenlun case. The grand jury held that the officials had sworn to false affidavits against Greenlun in retaliation for his having aided in breaking up a speed trap at the village of Brunswick.

Their affidavits had charged Greenlun with drunken driving and bribery. In their motions to quash the indictments, Lutz and Petchler held that the wording of the indictment was insufficient; that it did not state where the criminal libel had taken place, nor the manner in which the criminal libel was published.

PAGEANT OF FOODS COOKING SCHOOL

With all the glamour, fun and excitement that go with a cooking school, a woman knows that the wonderful new recipes she receives will mean more to her than any other feature of the school. And well may she feel this way, for Pageant of Foods Cooking School recipes are among the most famous in the country. Collected by a large staff of expert cooks, each recipe must prove itself valuable by the most rigid standards before it is chosen. Is it practical? Does it call for ingredients found regularly on the supply shelf? Does it meet high requirements of flavor? (Note: Men are included among the taste-testers.) Does it serve attractively? How much time and work are required for its preparation? Can it be cooked in a utensil found in the average kitchen? These and many other questions must be answered favorably before the recipe is even considered.

And then for the variety! Meat dishes, cakes, pies, cookies, salads, desserts. Pageant of Foods is the only cooking school which features meat cookery, so recipes are included illustrating the correct and easy methods for broiling, roasting, braising (some call it pot-roasting!), and simmering in water (meat should NEVER be actually boiled!). A woman who attends all sessions and applies all she learns cannot help becoming a good meat cook!

Each day's printed Pageant of Foods Recipe Booklet contains more than a score of recipes which have been tested by the above high standards. Directions are simple and clear. Many of the recipes will be prepared before your eyes by the famous expert in charge of the school. Plan to attend every session so you will receive the full set of recipes and get the benefit of every lesson!

SHELBY CLOSES HOT CAMPAIGN

Mayor Race Holds Interest as City Votes; 3,000 Due to Visit Polls Today.

SHELBY—Candidates for municipal offices in this city today had completed one of the hottest campaigns ever conducted in Shelby. A record vote of some 3,000 is expected today, political leaders predicted.

Under the city charter form of government, all candidates for office must run on a non-partisan ticket.

Greatest interest has been shown in the race for mayor. Mayor D. Bruce Young, minister of First Lutheran church, is opposed by Attorney William R. Morris. Mayor Young is completing his third term in the office. Morris, who first appeared in politics here two years ago when he was defeated for the office of director of law, is opposing Young on an "economy" platform.

Another hot contest is that between Chester Monn and Gail Haun for director of finance. With Finance Director Bert Fix out of the race this year, interest has been high as to who will succeed him.

A third interesting contest is that for director of law. Attorney Theodore Lutz, seeking his second term in the office, opposes Attorney Frank C. Long.

One bond issue is on the ballot. It is for the city's share of the proposed PWA project to construct a subway under the New York Central railroad at the West Smiley avenue crossing. The issue is for $43,000.

Candidates for the council include: First ward, Kenneth Rothlisberger and Felix Ludin; Second ward, Ross Sipes and Chester Bell; Third ward, John Chew and Noel Smith; Fourth ward, Charles Swanger and David Kinsell.

Running for Sharon township offices are: Township trustee, John P. Finnegan; clerk, Bert Fix, Gail Haun and Chester Monn; justice of the peace, G. W. Armstrong, M. E. Berkley and Otto Metz; constable, Edwin B. Lyberger and Harlan L. McCormick.

MORROW GIVEN STATE WARNING ON HEALTH FUND

Commissioner Told County Will Have to Contribute More for State Aid.

MT. GILEAD — Dr. R. L. Pierce, health commissioner of the Morrow county district, had been warned by Dr. R. H. Markwith, state director of health today that Morrow county will have to pay a larger share of the county health budget.

Dr. Markwith pointed out that of the county budget of $8,598.34, only $2,868.34 was being provided through local funds. As many counties are clamoring for health units and are willing to match federal funds dollar for dollar, Dr. Markwith warned that Morrow county must provide additional money or lose out to other counties. The state now provides much of the matching money for Morrow county.

Pointing out that he was appreciative of the financial problem of Morrow County and the health program as carried out here, Dr. Markwith nevertheless asserted that the county budget commission would have to provide more funds for the budget.

Night Worker For 19 Years, Ashland 'Hello Girl' Rests

ASHLAND—After 19 years as night supervisor of the local telephone exchange, Mrs. Amy Sturges of West Fourth street, is going to have the privilege of learning to sleep at night again—just like other people.

Mrs. Sturges has been on the job as night supervisor all this time, working from 10 o'clock in the evening until 7 o'clock the next morning.

But now that is all over, for Mrs. Sturges has retired, but she declares that she will never forget some of the pleasant memories connected with her position.

To many men whom she would never recognize by face, but who for years have made night routine calls, Mrs. Sturges has become "mother," and she has been called that on the calls.

She can class hundreds of voices simply by hearing them and could tell a very interesting story of the evolution in telephone service since she first started way back in 1920.

NEUTRALS HIT ON BLOCKADE

Belgium and Holland Worried as Berlin Charges British Given Leniency.

munique sometime later. The communique may not be issued until after an emergency meeting of the Belgian cabinet.

There were increasing indications that Belgium, Holland and other small neutrals were increasingly alarmed lest they be involved in the war.

It might be, of course, that Leopold and Wilhelmina merely wanted to survey their general foreign policies in the light of general developments, as some Dutch quarters suggested. Or they might possibly be considering some peace proposals.

But those suggestions did not seem to offer an adequate explanation of Leopold's urgent and unannounced trip to The Hague. Political quarters in Belgian referred vaguely to "grave developments." All the evidence seemed to indicate that some definite and alarming news must have been received.

Speculation centered at once on the possibility that Germany might have decided to try to break the deadlock on the western front by sweeping through Holland, Belgium or both.

There was no news from Berlin that any such move was being considered. Germany repeatedly has promised to respect the neutrality and the frontiers of Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and the Scandinavian states.

While Belgium and Holland held most attention, other neutrals also had their worries.

Norway once more defied German contentions in the case of the American freighter City of Flint. The German prize crew, taken off the ship at Haugesund, Norway, was ordered taken to a 300-year-old castle near the Swedish border for internment, presumably for the duration of the war. The ship, in charge of her American crew, remained at Bergen pending a final decision on whether she will leave her cargo there rather than attempt to deliver it to England.

Finland's negotiations with Soviet Russia still hung fire. The Finnish cabinet met to draft fresh instructions for its delegates in Moscow. The negotiations were not expected to be resumed until after the three-day Soviet celebration of the anniversary of red revolution which ends tomorrow.

In that celebration today, 50,000 picked Soviet troops and 1,000,000 civilians paraded through Red square. War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov thundered to the crowds that "we shall take no part in war," but that Russia must be increasingly prepared to protect its interests.

As for military developments, the French were elated by a great victory in the first major aerial engagement of the war. They claimed nine American-made pursuit planes shot down nine of 27 German planes that crossed the lines yesterday. The French said they suffered no losses. Berlin claimed to have brough down two French and one British plane.

On the ground, the French still held the Forback salient which dominates Germany's Saar valley industries.

1,300 AT FOOD SCHOOL OPENING

Largest Crowd Ever to Attend First Session Welcomes Miss Chambers Again.

An all-white kitchen unit of electric range, refrigerator, sink and steel cabinets, was set up on the stage.

As Miss Chambers began her lecture and cooking, waves of savory ordors floated out into the theater—browned onions, roasting meat, biscuits and cake browning in the oven.

In the parade of foods at the end of the lecture there were a number of meat dishes, vegetables, apple pie, cake with chocolate icing, French fried potatoes, spaghetti and other attractive dishes.

Tomorrow's program will be "New Quirks In The Home" and the list of dishes to be prepared will appeal to the housewife who wants something "new and different." There will be banana tea bread, German potato pancakes, bacon bran bread, sausage and hominy omlet, oven stew, buffet ham, the German sauerbraten (sour meat), pecan rolls and a number of other recipes.

The school opens at 9 a. m. and closes at 11:30. Immediately after the start tomorrow there will be a quiz contest, open to any woman in the audience.

HUNT RAIDER

Allies Report Deutschland Is Sighted Near Azores.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Neutral naval circles reported today that allied naval units had sighted the German pocket battleship Deutschland in the neighborhood of the Azores Islands.

The allied naval command has worked out a definite plan to hunt down the Deutschland because its presence in the Atlantic endangers shipments of allied war materials from the United States, a reliable source reported.

It was said that the Deutschland's presence off Newfoundland 10 days ago had been confirmed, and that an attempt was being made to keep a close check on its movements.

CRUISER STUCK AGAIN AT ERIE

Breaks Another Oil Line Just as It Gets Ready to Start.

ERIE, Pa. —(AP)— The snow cruiser designed for the Byrd antarctic expedition attempted to get an early and unannounced start from Erie today to avoid the crowds but plans again went awry.

Motors of the huge vehicle were turned over at 5:30 a. m. and an escort of state police was rushed to the yards of the General Electric company plant, where the cruiser has been taking on new motors.

The vehicle moved slowly towards the gates of the yards and then stalled. Investigation revealed another broken oil line.

DEATH DEMANDED

Youth, 17, Accused In Murder of Widow, 62, In Indiana.

WARSAW, Ind.—(AP)—Frank E. Potts, 17, Catawba, S. C., was under indictment on a charge of first degree murder today for the slaying of Mrs. Florence Potter, 62, Warsaw widow who was found strangled and beaten in her home Oct. 13.

Prosecutor Jacob Koontz said he would demand the death penalty. Potts confessed the slaying Sunday, police said, after he was arrested for vagrancy at Atchison, Kan.

American citizens in their crews.

Should the ships ever be returned to the United States registry after the proposed transfer, the commission said, they could not enter coastwise or intercoastal service. The nine vessels are the American Shipper, American Banker, American Trader, American Traveler, American Farmer, American Importer, American Merchant, the President Harding and the President Roosevelt.

The United States lines' two largest ships—the Manhattan and the Washington — will remain under the American flag, probably in Latin-American service.

Sees No 'Dodge' Attempt.

Commissioner Max Truitt, discussing the application, expressed the belief that it was a sound situation without "any element of dodge" from the neutrality act.

"There is nothing in the neutrality law, or in the debates that I remember," said Truitt, "which indicated an American citizen could not charter a boat of a foreign government."

The commission was told by the state department, it was learned, that no question of foreign policy was involved in the transfer.

On the other hand, Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union, declared in New York that the transfer would mean "the company can ignore the collective bargaining contract with us."

"If they put alien seamen on these ships to evade the neutrality law and our union contracts," he said, "we will march 10,000 seamen down to Washington and picket the place 'till they drop'."

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL

Frank Livingston, 47, Taken By Death In Columbus.

Frank Livingston, 47, of 287 Marion avenue, died Monday in Columbus following a heart attack. Mr. Livingston had been in ill health in recent weeks and was in Columbus for medical treatments.

false, and asks for a hearing.

The director had charged him with "drunkenness, political activity and falsification of expense accounts."

The indictment of the two Brunswick officials grew out of Judge Culbertson's request for a grand jury investigation of "widespread perjury." After its investigation the county grand jury indicted Lutz and Petchler on criminal libel charges in connection with the Greenlun case. The grand jury held that the officials had sworn to false affidavits against Greenlun in retaliation for his having aided in breaking up a speed trap at the village of Brunswick.

Their affidavits had charged Greenlun with drunken driving and bribery. In their motions to quash the indictments, Lutz and Petchler held that the wording of the indictment was insufficient; that it did not state where the criminal libel had taken place, nor the manner in which the criminal libel was published.

PAGEANT OF FOODS COOKING SCHOOL

With all the glamour, fun and excitement that go with a cooking school, a woman knows that the wonderful new recipes she receives will mean more to her than any other feature of the school. And well may she feel this way, for Pageant of Foods Cooking School recipes are among the most famous in the country. Collected by a large staff of expert cooks, each recipe must prove itself valuable by the most rigid standards before it is chosen. Is it practical? Does it call for ingredients found regularly on the supply shelf? Does it meet high requirements of flavor? (Note: Men are included among the taste-testers.) Does it serve attractively? How much time and work are required for its preparation? Can it be cooked in a utensil found in the average kitchen? These and many other questions must be answered favorably before the recipe is even considered.

And then for the variety! Meat dishes, cakes, pies, cookies, salads, desserts. Pageant of Foods is the only cooking school which features meat cookery, so recipes are included illustrating the correct and easy methods for broiling, roasting, braising (some call it pot-roasting!), and simmering in water (meat should NEVER be actually boiled!). A woman who attends all sessions and applies all she learns cannot help becoming a good meat cook!

Each day's printed Pageant of Foods Recipe Booklet contains more than a score of recipes which have been tested by the above high standards. Directions are simple and clear. Many of the recipes will be prepared before your eyes by the famous expert in charge of the school. Plan to attend every session so you will receive the full set of recipes and get the benefit of every lesson!

PUPILS JOIN STORE'S STAFF TO GAIN ACTUAL SALES EXPERIENCE

Practical experience in selling will be given 16 salesmanship students at Senior high school will spend part of their daily schedule on the sales staff of the Montgomery Ward company store, beginning today and continuing for the next eight weeks.

During the period four different students will take the role of salespeople each week to gain experience in meeting people and in selling, John C. Stout, salesmanship teacher, said.

Students will attend school in the morning and will be at the store from 1 to 5 p. m. Each of the 16 will work one week and at the end of the four weeks will repeat the schedule.

Students who begin today and work the first week are Robert Lehman, Charles Callahan, June Statler and Vivian Miller.

Others are Donald Stout, James Davis, Frances Miller and Geraldine Hartman, Nov. 13 to 17; Robert Pugh, Charles Cutter, Marilyn Meier and Elizabeth Wharton, Nov. 20 to 24; Paul Hannewald, Robert Sandel, Viola Meister and Jane Meyers, Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

Saturday night, following the Mansfield-Canton McKinley football game, the high school band will sponsor a school dance in the gymnasium as another project to raise money for new band uniforms. Dancing will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. with Gene Lantz and his orchestra furnishing the music.

"Huckleberry Finn," starring Mickey Rooney, is being featured at the school this week during the noon picture shows. The show will continue through Friday, with two reels being shown each day.

TANGERINE

PARIS—(AP)—One of the newest garden party frocks is fashioned of tangerine colored organdy, covered with fine pleatings, and topped with a blue straw bonnet faced with cornflowers. Pale apricot organdy makes an evening dress, trimmed with fluttering white petals caught to bandings of white embroidery. Both these models are Paquin's.
